July 3 Freedom Run takes new course

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

The Fifth Annual Antioch Run For Freedom will be taking a new route through the village this year.

Run officials have announced the first mile of the course is remaining the same. The second and third miles are completely different.

With the addition of two subdivisions to the community, Tiffany Farms and Woods of Antioch, the course will be able to completely avoid going through the downtown area.

This enables Main Street to remain open for easier access to area merchants.

The course begins on Poplar Avenue, 465 to be exact, just west of the Williams Park Scout House. It continues west to Hillside, turning right (north) on Hillside.

At 1st Street the course turns right (east), continuing to Highland.

Course layout and story on Firecracker events/A4

A short left (north) on Highland, and a left (west) on North for the runs longest leg.

At Wood Creek, the course turns left (east) to Indian Ridge where it makes another left (north). At Ridgeway, it turns right, angling east, southeast to Poplar.

Turning left (east) at Poplar, runners make the stretch run back to the start area with the finish at the second electrical pole west of Cunningham.

Having the start and finish at the same location on Poplar Avenue should be more convenient for runners, supporters and spectators alike.

Over 600 runners/walkers are expected to participate. All proceeds are used to construct and maintain walking and running trails throughout the Antioch community.

Runners and walkers desiring to train prior to the event may begin working the course which has mile markers in place.

Victory's 'state of art' facility expands services

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Lake County will soon be the recipient of a state of the art medical facility which will be known and used regionally, if not nationally.

"The main item for our being here is to show off this beautiful facility," said Tim Harrington, Victory Health Services chief executive officer.

Harrington's remarks were made inside the gymnasium portion of the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center before a crowd of several hundred doctors, area government officials and the media at a VIP Preview Celebration June 18.

A public open house of the facility is planned for Sunday, June 27.

'It truly is a proud and important event in the history of Victory Hospital," Harrington said. "Many people had to do with the hundreds and hundreds of things which had to be done. I get the credit for the work done by so many other people. I extend to them a special thanks."

"This facility is fulfilling a commitment to provide affordable and accessible user friendly services," Harrington continued. "It's a hospital without beds."

"It happened because of a vision;" said Harrington. "I say to the community, welcome. For over 107 years, Victory Hospital has existed to offer treatment to the community. For the past eight years, Provena-St. Therese's has joined with us.'

"To all who pass through these doors, may they be treated with Victory's four C's," Harrington concluded. "Caring, compassion, courtesy and competence."

An exact opening date when the facility will be available for procedures to the public has not been determined.

The facility has completed two preliminary county inspections, according to Patricia L. Behling, vice president and chief operating officer for the Lindenhurst facility located on the west side of the Victory Lakes campus.

"We're working on the county and local, Lindenhurst, occupancy permits," Behling explained. "We have a temporary permit pending

Route 59, Grass Lake running smoother By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Motorists using the Route 59 and Grass Lake Road intersection will be finding the road a little smoother.

Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) officials report the project is near completion with electric scheduled for turn on for the signals and lighting on June 24.

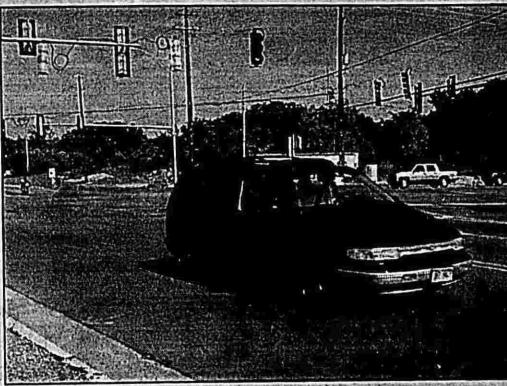

"We have some things to wrap up on the punch list," explained Jeff Moseley, IDOT resident engineer in charge of overseeing the project.

"There will be a little landscaping work to be completed," Moseley added. "Everything should be done by the end of the month."

Shelly Costello, IDOT Lake and McHenry County field engineer, noted traffic in the area may continue to be somewhat slow until all of the sub-contractors including the landscaping workers have completed their portions of the project.

Included in the project is the addition of a right turn lane eastbound on Grass Lake Road, turning southbound on Route 59.

Left turn lanes have been added in all four directions.

All four sections of lanes were widened. Installation of new storm sewers was included.

Grass Lake Road in that area is under two different governmental jurisdictions. West of Route 59, Lake County Department of Transportation is in charge. East, it is under IDOT.

Neither plans any further work at this time on the respective portions of Grass Lake Road under their

Officials praise center

Legislators happy about Victory

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

The preview of the new Victory Surgery and Treatment Center in Lindenhurst received a double thumbs up from area governmental officials.

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis was unable to attend, sending a representative who presented a State of Illinois flag to be flown in front of the center.

"I'm very proud of all of the work which has been done at the center," Geo-Karis said in a written statement. "I'm very happy that it is in my legislative district.

"It's terrific," commented State Representative Tim Osmond. "It's state of the art and western Lake County deserves having such a facility."

"It's also great that it has ties to the EMS (Emergency Medical System) with both Victory and St. Therese hospitals," Osmond said. "It's also great that it's located within the communities of Lindenhurst, Lake Villa and Antioch."

On a personal note, Osmond recalled suffering a heart attack nine years ago. "I had to go through cardiac rehabilitation, and it was a little inconvenient having to commute back and forth to Waukegan," Osmond said. "We're very lucky to have such a great facility located right here now."

"Two years ago, my wife had to have double knee replacement surgery," recalled Lindenhurst Trustee Fred Messmer. "We had to commute to St. Therese Rehabilitation Center in Waukegan. Here we'll have all of the state of the art equipment necessary for rehabilitation. It's a definite asset to the whole area, not just Lindenhurst."

"This is the first time I've even had an opportunity to look at the plans," said Trustee Kay Knapp, who just joined the Lindenhurst board in April. "My first hand impression is that it's a lovely facility providing a great benefit to the people of Lindenhurst. It's convenient, plus it's going to employ a lot of people, too."

"I'm pretty impressed," said Lindenhurst Trustee Patrick Dunham. "This was the first set of plans that I voted on when I came onto the board. It's great to see the end results after seeing it just on paper. It's very impressive. It'll be a big benefit to the community."

Former State Representative Bob Churchill was also in attendance at the VIP preview.

Dist. 34 reviews its finances

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Concerns regarding the finances coming from property taxes and the ceiling placed by the tax cap are being raised by the Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34 Board of Education.

The Board, at its regular June meeting, are looking at the amount of new funds raised by new construction within the school district's boundries.

For the 1998-99 school year, their was an increase of 2.6 percent over the previous year, according to Dr. Daniel Burke, district superintendent.

The increase is expected to drop to 1.5 percent for the 1999-2000.

"We are concerned that if there is no change in the tax cap, we won't be able to keep up," explained Burke.

A report on possible options for the board is expected at the August

PMA Financial Network, Inc., at the recommendation of Dr. Paul Hain, district business manager, has been obtained to invest the $18.9 million in building funds the district received through the April referendum passage. Hain informed the board he contacted PMA following several positive references he had received from public financial professionals.

"Timing investments, arranging purchases and sales, having cash when needed, tracking interest earned and dealing with Internal Revenue Service (IRS) arbitrage laws are professional investment management tasks," Hain stated.

Through the use of PMA, the district stands to earn as much as $550,000 during the life of the project through their projections. PMA's fee is approximately $11,000.

"All of our funds are invested in legally qualified investments for schools that I approve before they act," Hain explained. "PMA prepares monthly financial spreadsheets summarizing the activity that will be included in the monthly board pack-

The August meeting will feature the approval of the tentative budget for the 1999-2000 school year. By law, the budget will be available for public viewing for 30 days at the district office following the August meeting. It would be brought before the board at its September session for final approval.

In a money related item, the board approved signing a contract with Kids Count Entertainment. The company provides CD Roms at greatly reduced prices to the school district. In exchange, the company would use the district's name in advertising.

The board's approval is contingent with the "right of refusal" of any advertising copy and the agreement the district would view any copy prior to publication.

Waste Management of Antioch will continue as the waste disposal hauler for the district for at least another year. Concerns regarding billing mistakes have been cleared up, according to Burke, and the board agreed to retain the company.

What are the five Ws? This quick and easy newspaper game can help young people learn about current events.

Pick out an article. Read it out loud with your children, or better yet, have them read it to you.

Then see how quickly they can answer the five Ws of newspaper reporting: what happened; why did it happen; who was invovled; where did it happen; and when did it hap-

An update on my Father's Day Lake Michigan trip.

The weather was great, with the lake just a little bumpy.

Mom, Alice Babicz, of North Chicago made the trip along with my sister, Jean Babicz, of Villa Park and my friend, Cathy Landgren, of Camp Lake, Wis.

Captain Frank Ostrowski of Beach Park did a great job leading us to the right spot, between 125-150 feet of water, a little north out of Waukegan Harbor.

The OK-Doke proved good to us once again, with the spirit of my late father guiding us to just the right spot.

The result was my catching the biggest fish of my life, a lake trout tipping the scales at just under 24 pounds.

We also caught three additional coho salmon, all in the 5-10 pound range, during the four hour trip.

Mom, at age 80, did a great job weathering a little bit of sea sickness, which was pretty good considering this was the first time she had been out on a boat in probably 25-30 years.

All in all, it was a great Father's Day. The big laker is awaiting mounting and will be a constant happy reminder atop my fireplace.

Bricks from old high school offered to public as keepsakes

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Persons who would like to have a brick from the old Antioch Community High School to keep as a piece of history will have that opportunity next week.

Dr. Dennis Hockney, District 117 superintendent, announced the availability of the bricks from the demolition of the old 1915 and 1927 sections of the school to the public. There is no charge for the bricks, but donations are accepted.

Community members are invited to visit the site and pick up bricks on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 28, 30 and July 1, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Demolition, which is part of the $13 million building program, began the morning of June 22.

"It is both a sad day and exciting day," commented Hockney, as he watched the demolition begin. "It's sad because of the many fond memories associated with the older sections of the building, and exciting because it represents progress in the building project."

Additional classrooms, science labs, office areas and a new library are included in the Main Street facility project.

When completed, the school will be designed to handle 2,000 students "comfortably," according to Hockney.

The construction is being completed without any increase in local property taxes.

Earlier this month, several alumni toured the older section of the building, giving them an opportunity to reminisce about times gone by, as well as get a last view of the build-

At that time, many asked about getting a brick which prompted the decision by the school board to allow the community to obtain bricks.

LaCASA magic dinner raises more than $20,000 for charity

The LaCASA/Zacharias Center's annual May Magic dinner and banquet at The Forge Club in Vernon Hills was a huge success, raising more than $20,000 for the non-profit organization which combats sexual assault in Lake County. More than 150 attendees enjoyed and danced to a special performance by musical group Lynne Jordan the Shivers. The evening also featured a highly successful silent auction and "split-thepot" raffle with proceeds going to LaCASA.

LaCASA's special thanks go out to both The Bill Pigati family, for providing the venue for the evening, and honorary chairpersons Tom and Brenda Schwartz, whose energies and support contributed greatly to the evening's success.

The LaCASA/Zacharias Center is a non-profit organization that raises sexual assault awareness across Lake County. Among LaCASA's many programs which benefit area residents are: community education, counseling for child and adult sexual assault survivors, legal and medical advocacy, emergency room and police training and a 24-hour hotline for crisis intervention. In the past year, LaCASA has aided over 23,000 Lake County residents.

LV Rescue squad receives Prudential grant for defibrillator

By JACLYN GRAHAM Staff Intern

The Lake Villa Rescue Squad was just accepted into the Prudential Helping Hearts Program. The LV Rescue Squad is one of 500 volunteer rescue squads from across the country that will be accepted into the program during 1999.

The Prudential Helping Hearts Program is a nationwide grant-making initiative, which has committed over $4 million to nearly 1900 volunteer EMS squads since 1994, for purchasing portable cardiac defibrillators.

These machines, which administer jolts of electricity to "reset" the heart's natural rhythm, have been called one of the most important lifesaving inventions of the 20th century. In 1999, the Prudential Helping Hearts Program is making $1,000 available to help defray the defibrillator costs.

This Prudential program has been providing defibrillator grants to volunteer EMS squads for the past five years. At the end of 1996, almost 1,000 squads in 13 states had qualified for $2.5 million in grants.

In 1997, Prudential expanded its Helping Hearts Program to all 50 states and since then has pledged an additional $1.7 million in grants to help nearly 900 more EMS squads across the United States. Many lives have been saved with machines purchased through this program. "The defibrillators that Prudential helps purchase will, in all likelihood make the difference between life and death for hundreds of individuals who suffer cardiac arrest. Few investments have a greater potential to save lives," said Scott Peterson, executive director of Prudential's Helping Hearts Program. "Prudential is proud to help the Lake Villa Rescue Squad purchase this invaluable life-saving machine."

Headquartered in New Jersey, Prudential is one of the largest financial institutions in the world, and the largest insurance company in North America. Prudential donates millions of dollars and thousands of employee volunteer hours to support nonprofit programs throughout the state and across the country. .

Victory officials are hoping for a first surgery date of sometime in late summer or early fall. Depending upon the outcomes of the inspections and further requirements or changes placed upon Victory prior to the opening, an earlier date my become possible.

Once open, the facility will offer services 23-hours-per-day, with doctors able to schedule accordingly, allowing for plenty of recovery time which varies by the patient and procedure.

A heliport is included which will allow for patients from nearby areas or hospitals to be flown in, as well as assisting with treatment of emergency cases.

The facility will be available to all area physicians, as well as some doctors from specialized hospitals throughout the Midwest. Victory will ask any physicians wishing to conduct procedures to become a Victory Hospital staff physician for legal reasons.

"We're very proud of this time in the growth of the Victory organization," said John Clennon, Victory Health Services chairman of the board. "Over 100 years ago, a number of people in town (Waukegan) came together to establish a hospital. This is where we're at today."

"Who knows how many more changes are in the future," Clennon continued. "What will endure, is the commitment of Victory and its board of directors to the community which they serve."

"This is a fulfillment of the Victory commitment and vision," Clennon concluded. "I trust that the people who use this facility will come to know Victory better. Our goal is to restore and maintain the health of the people in northern Lake County."

The Center will offer four areas of treatment and services to area residents.

A prone stereotactic breast biopsy system will be used in the mammography suite. The suite was funded in part by proceeds of the hospital's 1998 Festival of Trees fundraiser.

Coronary artery calcification assessment software for the CT scanner will offer a more "cost-effective, noninvasive solution" to early coronary artery disease detection.

A wide range of laboratory services will be available including tests and cultures performed with "state of the art" equipment able to meet outpatient testing needs.

Test results will be available much quicker, in many cases the same day, which will allow quicker diagnosis by the physicians and be able to cut down on patient stress.

Rehabilitative services include physical, speech/language, occupational and massage therapy. Complete cardiac and pulmonary exercise programs will be offered.

Grade school construction progressing on schedule

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Construction of the new grade school building at Depot Street and Deep Lake Road on Antioch's east side is progressing on schedule.

Although no dirt has been moved as yet, bulldozing work is expected to begin soon, according to Dr. Daniel Burke, Antioch Consolidated School District 34 superintendent.

"It's all good news," said Burke.
"We're on target as far as progress is concerned. We've been meeting with the architects and construction managers on a weekly basis. Everything's going along well."

The district is taking steps to make their existing school buildings, as well as the new one, safer and more secure.

Beginning this fall, persons desiring admittance to schools after transitional periods in the beginning and end of the day will be required to use a intercom system.

Only one entrance and exit doorway, the main entrance to the building, will be able to be accessed by visitors. Persons desiring to enter the building will have to use the video camera/two-way intercom system which will be hooked into the school's main office. A buzzer will be used by the office personnel to allow the person

District staff will have "swipe cards" which will be used for gaining access to locked doors.

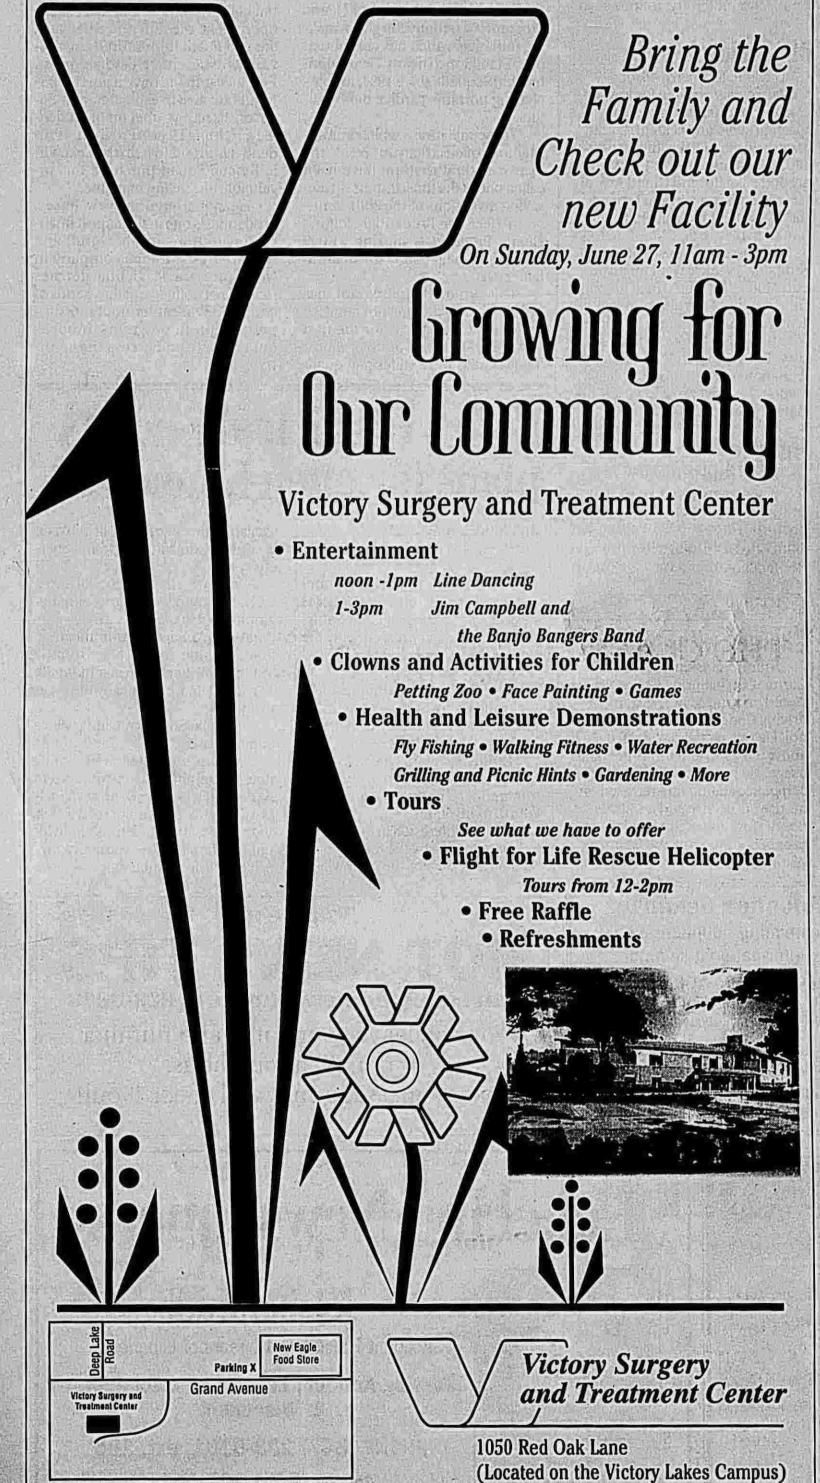

There is no plan for requiring student identification cards at this time, according to Burke.

The new security systems will be installed an operating prior to school opening in August.

My summer vacation, so far rell school has only been out a short time and already our resources are depleted. In order to alleviate the "I'm bored even though school has only been out two days" syndrome I had a fun-filled schedule of events prepared to put me in contention for the "Mother of the Year" award.

We did the Great America scene one day, we hit the Rockford Water Park on another scorching hot day. We ventured down to the city on the train, and then took the water taxi over to Navy Pier. This trip was a total loss though because after "dear old mom" shelled out $40 just to get to Navy Pier, I had a hard time letting go of another $30 for a bicycle the girls wanted to rent to ride around one.

This was enough to keep them in a snit the rest of the afternoon and I decided next time I'll leave the ungrateful urchins home. I did splurge and buy them tickets to ride the famous Ferris wheel, and I didn't even embarrass them by tossing my cookies, even though it did take every morsel of my very being. I don't know what possessed me to even climb on that thing seeing as I'm the one who gets woozy looking out our second story windows.

Why I didn't think my fear of heights would come in to play, I'll never know. Guess I was just trying to show off for the kids sake.

At times we were elevated so high above the great Chicago skyline I swear I caught a peek of God himself.

were recognized for their work

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

I know we were a blip on the radar in the control tower at O'Hare.

We also did the zoo scene, rode bikes through the State Park, and even spent the day yachting on the ever serene Chain of Lakes, stopping for lunch at the waterfront McDonalds in Fox Lake. We took in a ball game, complete with vendor hot dogs, peanuts, cotton candy, sno-cones, beverages and souvenir hats, t-shirts and pennants.

We have even eaten out for breakfast, lunch and dinner all in the same day—just because.

Well, today's mail arrived and in our little box laid the VISA bill. As I stared at the "Balance due" figure on the bill, I sat the children down, amidst grumbles and complaints, and proceeded to tell them that the rest of the summer would be spent in the front yard weeding the flower beds, or in the driveway playing basketball, or in the side yard swimming, or in the backyard picking up dog poop. So much for summer vacation.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle.'

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Coast Guard recognizes local business owner

Judith Kallos

Judith Kallos, president of Lake Online and Internet Studio, received two plaques presented to her by Flotilla 06-11 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Kallos, a professional web designer, donated her company's resources, and expertise to build a web site dedicated to the Partners "Sea Campaign."

Sea Partners is a US Coast Guard environmental education and outreach program which focuses on communities at large to develop community awareness of maritime pollution issues and to improve compliance with marine environmental protection laws. The site created by Lake Online's Internet Studio, was directed by their Senior Producer, Iill Kallos and contains features such as the true story of "Inky," a female pygmy sperm whale who was found stranded on a New Jersey coast on Thanksgiving Day in 1993. This story comes complete with pages which can be printed out so children of all ages can color Inky and help her solve fun puzzles. Then there is the "Adventures of Captain Cleanwater" and his activities book. Through fun word and math games, Captain Cleanwater teaches us how to best stop pollution from entering our waterways and, best of all, how to become part of the pollution solution. There are also lots of links to other interesting sites such as, the Official Government International Year of the Ocean Web Site or the International Year of the Ocean Home Page, plus About More Partner's, The Mission USCG, the Conservation Links and The United States Coast guard Web Site to name but a few.

"Judith's team has done an incredible job, and I'm sure members of the US Coast Guard and Coast Guard Auxiliary are truly grateful for her contribution to the Sea Partners Campaign." In the zone!!

Sexton current points leader at Wilmot BY JOHN PHELPS

Sports Editor In just about everything, success is a byproduct of a lot of hard work, practice and preparation that also requires, on occassion, quite a bit of patience. With that in mind, everyone has probably experienced the feeling of being in the groove, or in the zone, as they say, at one point in time or another.

And to that end, Tommy Sexton and his sprint car racing team have discovered that feeling, or formula for success, as Sexton is currently enjoying his best season of racing at Wilmot Speedway.

"It's all about preparation, and that's a tribute to the crew," said a humble but confident Sexton.

Sexton, who resides in Antioch with wife Paula and two-year-old daughter Jennifer, is a field service mechanic for Streamwood-based Falconite, Inc, an area work platform company.

Sexton has won three out of the last four regular season events, including the opening event in May and currently tops the points list in the Star Trac Outlaw Winged Sprints Division.

"It's nice that we got off to a decent start," he said. "It sounds so simple but we're just taking it a day, or in this case, a night (or race) at a

Furthermore, "Everything is just coming together-hopefully we can keep it up!"

Finding the right mix did take some time but it finally evolved, starting in the middle of last year. Long-time partners and car owners Donny Schroff of Bristol, Wis. and Wally Tynis, of Spring

Grove, had approached Sexton. "They came to me one night wondering if I could run their car," said Sexton. "We ran pretty good and one thing led to another. We ended up combining efforts and have been together ever since."

The fast start to the season also played a factor in keeping the team together.

"We were going to run IRA (Interstates Racing Association) events," said Sexton, referring to a Midwestern regional traveling series. "But getting off to the start we did, we wanted to stick it out and see where we could go with it., so we're mostly running at Wilmot."

The 33-year-old Sexton went on to say that he and his crew's success were largely due in part to preparations not only during the week in between shows, but over the winter as

'We work on the car and pretty much get things together," he said. "Everything started to and has cliqued for us because we're staying a step ahead."

Sexton began his racing career back in 1989, when he raced sprint cars on and off with a little travel thrown into the equation.

Then, in 1996, he won the MRA (Modified Racing Association) Championship and received an offer to then race MRA Modifieds.

The 1997-98 campaign were two fairly inactive years for Sexton, with the exception of a few scattered smaller shows, which leads us to pre-

Sexton's success would not be possible without the assistance of a strong crew, which consists of main crew members Jeff Schultz and John Cronan. Other intregal members on the Sexton team include Skip Wilson, Dave Sirro, and Bob Manuel, who helps the Sexton team immensely on Saturday nights.

"Having the best equipment and the car meeting all of the specifications is the key, and that's a credit to the guys on the team," noted Sexton."I am also very thankful for our sponsors and Wilmot for the opportunity to race."

Speaking of specifications, all sprint cars in each race have to meet a host of them.

For starters, Sexton's engine, built by Specialty Machine in Waukegan, is a 410 cubic-inch, fuelinjected Cheverolet.

The frame of his, or pretty much any sprint car, is welded tubular metal with a downsized inverted airplane-style aluminum wing on top, which serves as good stability through turns and forces the 800plus engine horsepower to the rear wheels on straightaways.

Weight restrictions at Wilmot require all sprint cars be 1,550 pounds or more, including the driver, and can be weighed during any point of the race program.

"It's all in an effort to keep everyone on the same page," said Sexton. "Everyone is competing under the same rules and its also cost-effective."

The weight-to-power ratio categorizes the sprint cars as the "Indy Car of short-track racing".

The sprint cars are also required to run a certain McCreary-brand tire on the right rear and use a certain muffler, which will cut down on some of the horsepower.

These moves were done in an attempt to help control costs on the local level.

As far as operation, the sprint cars consist of direct drive transmission and run on methanol alcohol.

Sponsorships also, as we all know, play a huge factor in the equation of the cars operation.

Sexton's car is sponsored locally by Antioch Auto Parts and Vaj's Garage, located in Bristol.

Sexton's goal is to ultimately run the IRA Midwest circuit. "You would obviously need a national sponsor for that," noted Sexton. "But running local for now is as about as far as we want to take it."

Plus, it keeps Sexton closer to home and the family can catch every race without having to travel a great distance.

'They've been tremendous and have had a big impact in my career," Sexton said of Paula and Jennifer. "They're really supportive and enjoy coming to the races whenever they can."

A typical night of racing includes two qualifying laps, from which top finishers are organized and placed into the 10-lap qualifying rounds. From there, the top four in each of those heats then moves on to the finals, or "A Main".

In the A-Main, competitors tackle 25 laps, with the winner obviously being crowned the champion.

If you qualify for the "A-main", you automatically receive $200. The winner in the "A-main" receives $1,200.

"It's definitely a good thing if you win," said Sexton. "If you run well, the prize money definitely helps keep operating costs down. So our main goal is to obviously qualify for . the features in every race."

Sexton went on to say that the prize money offered is pretty decent and on average with the higher tracks in the country.

Sexton has his sights set on the season finale, which includes 20 cars with drivers that have competed in at least 85 percent of the regular-season events.

Once that is established, the cars are then lined up in order according to respective finishes in the points standings.

Sexton's last race was this past ... Saturday at the "Jamin' in June" program. He finished 17th in the 20-car "A' main, out of 69 total cars which competed in the night's events.

"We timed 8th and took third in our heat," he said. "But the chassis, or suspension, was vibrating a little, so we had to make some adjustments. The conditions of the track also have a lot to do with how the car runs and can vary from race to race."

Sexton went on to say that if there is a low point for the team, to not get down and dwell on it too much."

"We're just trying to stay focused and concentrate on racing well and everything else should take care of itself," he said.

Sounds like the Sexton sprint car racing team doesn't need any adjustments where that is concerned!

My summer vacation, so far rell school has only been out a short time and already our resources are depleted. In order to alleviate the "I'm bored even though school has only been out two days" syndrome I had a fun-filled schedule of events prepared to put me in contention for the "Mother of the Year" award.

We did the Great America scene one day, we hit the Rockford Water Park on another scorching hot day. We ventured down to the city on the train, and then took the water taxi over to Navy Pier. This trip was a total loss though because after "dear old mom" shelled out $40 just to get to Navy Pier, I had a hard time letting go of another $30 for a bicycle the girls wanted to rent to ride around one.

This was enough to keep them in a snit the rest of the afternoon and I decided next time I'll leave the ungrateful urchins home. I did splurge and buy them tickets to ride the famous Ferris wheel, and I didn't even embarrass them by tossing my cookies, even though it did take every morsel of my very being. I don't know what possessed me to even climb on that thing seeing as I'm the one who gets woozy looking out our second story win-

Why I didn't think my fear of heights would come in to play, I'll never know. Guess I was just trying to show off for the kids sake.

At times we were elevated so high above the great Chicago skyline I swear I caught a peek of God himself.

I know we were a blip on the radar in the control tower at O'Hare.

We also did the zoo scene, rode bikes through the State Park, and even spent the day yachting on the ever serene Chain of Lakes, stopping for lunch at the waterfront McDonalds in Fox Lake. We took in a ball game, complete with vendor hot dogs, peanuts, cotton candy, sno-cones, beverages and souvenir hats, t-shirts and pennants.

We have even eaten out for breakfast, lunch and dinner all in the same day-just because.

Well, today's mail arrived and in our little box laid the VISA bill. As I stared at the "Balance due" figure on the bill, I sat the children down, amidst grumbles and complaints, and proceeded to tell them that the rest of the summer would be spent in the front yard weeding the flower beds, or in the driveway playing basketball, or in the side yard swimming, or in the backyard picking up dog poop. So much for summer vacation.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Gurnee's Engels leads area Wilmot finishers

'd like to take this opportunity to introduce you to a new column for the Lakeland Newspapers sports department.

"Let's Go Racing!!" is geared to provide readers with information on the local motor sports scene and as well as updates on local competitors.

This weekend, SCCA sanctions one of the biggest road course motorsports events in the country with the annual June Sprints at Road America.

One of the participants will be Bob Shineflug, husband of Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

Antioch based Premier Racing Productions, Debbie and Andy Calin, promoters of Wilmot Speedway on the Kenosha County Fairgrounds, hosted the area's biggest winged sprint car event thus far this season last Saturday.

"Jamin' In June," sponsored by Antioch's Raymond Chevrolet-Oldsmobile and Fox Lake's Ray Chevrolet, saw a area single day entry record for winged sprint cars. A total of 69 registered for the event, sanctioned by Lake Villa based J&L Oil/United Expresslines Interstate Racing Association with Lake Villa's Steve Sinclair serving as president.

Donny Goeden of Kewaskum, Wis., the current IRA pointsleader, scored a victory in the 25-lap feature event before the season's largest crowd at Wilmot. It was Goeden's fourth IRA win this season.

Lakeland area was well represented., with Gurnee's Tony Engels posted a career-best third-place effort. "It was like winning a feature," he said Harbor in Johnsburg, came from the 19th starting spot in the 20-car feature field to finish eighth. Fox Lake's Paul Ptasienski was 14th., Lake Villa's Raymond Hensley 16th, and regular Wilmot Star Trac Sprints pointleader Tommy Sexton of Antioch finished 17th.

D. Moulis and Engels finished second and third, respectively, in the 15-lap "B" main to qualify for the main event. Jim Moulis of Fox Lake, Dave's uncle, was 14th in the "B" with Fred Ebler of Gurnee finishing 18th.

Lake Villa's John Tierney earned fifth place in the "C" Main.

Richmond's Lisa Heywood finished seventh in the first 10-lap last chance heat, while Dave Boyd of Park City placed eighth in his first start of the season in the second last chance race.

In qualifying heats, Ptasienski was fourth in the first heat, Hensley second in the second heat, and Sexton third in the third heat.

Engels was the fifth best time trial qualifier, while J. Moulis earned seventh.

In the IMCA modified 20-lap feature, Ed Devall of Waukegan scored his first main event win of the season.

Lakeland was again well represented, as Scott Kuxhouse of Antioch, who won his first feature of the season two weeks earlier, finished second.

Three-time and defending champion Rob Olson of Lake Villa was third, and Jay Crichton, also from Lake Villa, was fourth, and Johnsburg's Carl Geler claimed fifth place.

First year driver Jason Hyerdall of Wildwood was seventh, and Jerry Pitts Jr. of Ingleside, making his first start ever in an IMCA open wheel car, finished ninth. Dr. Ken Johnson, a rookie and practicing dentist at Antioch Dental Center, was 11th, Chuck Ostergaard of Wildwood 13th, and another rookie, Jim Morrison of Antioch, finished 16th. And racing fireman Warren Meyer of Wilmot wound up in 18th place.

Main Street hits snag

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

The Main Street development project in downtown Antioch is being put on hold for a brief period while summertime activities take over.

"We have proceeded quite nicely in some areas, while in others, not quite so well," explained John Boldt, village engineer, in updating the village board at its June 21 meeting.

Boldt expected all sidewalk and street pavement work completed by June 24. All "little fix-up" items are expected to be done by June 30.

One "glitch" which will prevent the project from being completely wrapped up by the Independence Day Holiday Celebration, the original deadline, is an unexpected delay in the arrival of the street light poles.

"The manufacturer of the poles says they won't be here until August 6, possibly one week earlier," explained Boldt, noting the style Antioch is getting turns out to be very popular.

As a result, Greenhill Construction, the project general contractor, received a contract extension from the board to June 30 for all other items and 15 days after the poles arrive for final completion, not to go past August 30.

"The trees on the west side of the street are in worse shape because of their roots and the sidewalk grates," explained Boldt.

During the lowering of the sidewalk in some places, for handicap access and better rain water drainage, problems with the roots balling up and raising the concrete were discovered.

"Unfortunately, we can't line up the grates on the west side due to the root balls," Boldt said. "We are working on the problem and are hoping to come up with some options."

"Most of the work will be completed by July 4 so as not to inconvenience persons attending the parade and other festivities," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

The street will continue to have its current lighting until the new poles arrive and are installed. Once the new poles arrive, Boldt anticipates the installation and final work to be done "relatively quickly."

A rock-like backfill will be used in any unfinished areas, along with those spaces near the existing light poles to make it safe for walkers, according to Boldt.

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Despite limited reservations, the Antioch Village Board approved awarding the contract for the sewer and water installation along the southem stretch of Route 83.

Following the recommendation of John Boldt, village engineer, the $397,000 contract was awarded to Contour Contracting, Inc.

In making his recommendation, Boldt noted Contour came in $30,000 less than the next lowest bidder, and was under the $404,000 original low bid last October.

"We had another job done in a different community by Contour, and they did not do a good job of getting the program done in time," Boldt explained. "I have every confidence that Contour and the individual who will be running this job, will do the job."

"The individual who was involved in the previous job is no longer employed by Contour," Boldt continued. "It was more of an individual problem then a company problem."

Following considerable discussion and clarification of the concerns, Trustee Marvin Oldenburg moved the awarding of the contract have three contingencies: the full funding by the property owners who will be benefiting from the hookups; and the village engineer's reservations be fully disclosed to the property owners; and the appropriate performance bond be filed by Contour.

The board unanimously approved the motion, with Trustee Ronald Cunningham absent.

In an update, Tim Wells, village manager, and Ken Clark, village attorney, informed the board LaSalle Bank had been notified and given a June 25 deadline to have the Mystic Cove vacant lots mowed.

Clark relayed LaSalle claimed a contractor which the bank hired had been out last week, but there was too much water in the lots to cut.

Jim Parks, a Cove resident, noted a landscaping company contractor was in the area June 21 surveying.

The board agreed to give LaSalle a chance, with an update expected at the next board meeting Tuesday, July 6, due to the holiday.

Thousands and thousands of items are bulging out of St. Peter's School as it is time for the annual rummage sale.

Sale hours are 7 a.m.-9 p.m. Thursday, June 24; 8 a.m.-9 p.m. Friday, June 25; 8 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday, June 26 and 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday, June 27.

St. Peter's School is located at 557 Lake St., to the north of St. Peter's Catholic Church at Routes 173 and 59. The sale literally runs through the entire school building using the gymnasium, two cafeterias, several classrooms and the parking lot.

Beat the heat in Phoenix by going underground by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

Phoenix's heat, while a welcome relief from our midwestern winters, can be downright unpleasant in the summer. That's when you should head underground!

I'm taking about the many caves just a few hours drive out of town. They range from the guided tour, family variety, to walk-crawl-slide-on-your-belly type for the more adventurous. One thing all of these caves have in common is a year-round temperature of about 45 degrees!

Let's start with those not requiring ropes and hard hats. Colossal Cave, on the way to Tucson, offers guided tours for about $4. Legend has it that in the late 1880's a bank robber disappeared into this cave with $62,000 in gold coins, never to be seen again.

Grand Canyon Cavern, west of Seligman on Route 66, was discovered in 1927. Guided tours were conducted via rope ladders until 1936. Now you can ride an elevator into the main chamber and follow a concrete guided trail.

For the slightly more adventurous there is a Lava River Cave northwest of Flagstaff. To get into this, you must climb through a huge hole into a sometimes icy chamber. The temperature here can get into the thirties!

Colder yet is ice cave northeast of Flagstaff. Warm clothes are a must as 28 degrees is not uncommon as you venture the half mile into the cave. Bring a flashlight. Crystal Cave, in the Chiracahau Mountains, requires a stop at the Douglas Ranger Station for a permit and a $25 refundable key deposit to unlock the gate at the cave entrance. While you don't have to be an experienced "spelunker," you should have some knowledge of cave exploration and cave safety to visit this kind of cave. True to its name, Crystal Cave has crystals growing on its ceilings and walls.

Copper Queen underground mine is, as the name implies, not a cave but a mine. The 75-minute tour leading 1,800 feet into the Mule Mountains is worth the $4. You'll find this one near Bisbee.

What better escape from the Arizona Sun than to see what is underground!

The Volvo S70: Continuing the Volvo tradition of constant improvement hen Volvo introduced the S70 and V70 series in January 1997, the vehicles were seen as major all-round improvements over their predecessors, the award-winning 850 model line. The new cars were dramatically restyled both inside and out with all-new sheet metal and an entirely new interior which features refined Scandinavian styling. The S70 and V70 also offered new levels of overall safety engineering as well as improved road dynamics and comfort. A total of over 1,800 changes were made to make these cars even more successful.

For 1999, Volvo has continued its philosophy of constant improvement through the evolution of design and engineering and the integration of new technologies to existing product lines. Major improvements have been made to the engine and its management systems, the electrical system and to the braking system. Perhaps most importantly, Volvo has once again taken a major step forward in the area of occupant protection with a third-generation upgrade to SIPS, Volvo's patented, award-winning side impact protection system. Volvo pioneered the side impact air bag, the occupant protection device most widely associated with the system, in 1994.

-Volvo's current nomenclature system, which debuted with the 1998 models, is based on platform designations that denote both the type of model and its series lineage. This numbering system continues to expand for 1999 with the introduction of the new S80 series. The letter "S" signifies the model is a

$70: Tradition of constant improvement

VOLVO=SAFETY: IMPROVED AGAIN FOR 1999

Nowhere is Volvo's philosophy of continual evolution more apparent than in the improvements made for 1999 in the areas of both passive and dynamic safety. Those include: System and performance upgrades made to its world-famous Side Impact Protection System (SIPS); Two trigger settings for front air bags deployment; Automatic door unlocking feature with air bag deployment; Stability and traction control (STC) to provide sure acceleration from a stand still and at speed on slippery roads (T5 turbocharged front wheel-drive only); Volvo Traction Control System (TRACS) available on all non-turbocharged front-wheel-drive models; Antilock brakes with electronic brake distribution to maximize brake performance under all conditions and all loads; fender mounted turn indicators; clutch interlock system; cruise control "on" in-dash indicator light.

For 1999, the SIPS system has been extensively re-designed to provide enhanced head protection in side impacts. While the lower section of the bag continues to help protect the chest and thorax by limiting the rapid lateral acceleration, which is the primary cause of injury, an upper section has been added to protect the head. This addition helps protect the driver of passenger's head from impacting the vehicle structure. Deployment of this larger bag takes place in less than 25 milliseconds.

The deployment mechanism has also been modified. The side impact sensor is now of an electrical type and has been relocated to the "B" pillar. The sensor, once activated, sends a signal to the central Supplementary Restraint System (SRS) control module that in turn activates the appropriate air bags. The sensor itself consists of a microprocessor and an acceleration sensor mounted on a circuit board. The front seatbelt buckles have new Hall-type switches to help ensure better signal exchange.

The "S" in the SIPS acronym stands for system. And the air bags are but part of the overall SIPS system. The B-pillars, the most important link in the system, were reinforced during the 1998 S70 and V70 re-design, in order to help further reduce the risk of severe chest injuries. Additionally, the interior panels on these pillars were given softer padding to help prove more effective head protection.

New for 1999 is a dual stage deployment air bag triggering system. The first level is for low speed frontal accidents and utilizes only the pyrotechnic pretensioners if the occupants are belted and only the airbag if they are not. At the second trigger level, for higher speeds, the pyrotechnic pretensioners and the airbag are utilized if the occupants are belted and just the airbag if they unbelted. A pretensioner is a device that helps remove belt slack and is deployed by a sensor that also deploys the front air bags.

In addition to the above, all Volvo S70 and V70 models are equipped with the following 'passive' safety features: Seat belt pretensioners for driver and front passenger seat; the steering column is equipped with three split points and, as a result, collapses further away from the driver in the event of certain types of collisions; Eye-level light Emitting Diode (LED) brake light on the rear window which lights faster than the typical halogen bulb units, thus helping to reduce the approaching driver's reaction time; Four air bags (two front and two side) to help protect front-seat occupants during both front and side impact; Three-point seat belts in all five seating positions; Head restraints at all five seating positions even on the V70 wagons.

While there is a seat belt securing device for the front passenger seat, Volvo recommends that all child safety seats and booster cushions/backrests should be only in the back seats. Volvo also recommends that children and small adults fewer than 4 feet 7 inches should sit in the rear seat properly restrained by the seat belt.

DYNAMIC SAFETY IS IMPROVED AS WELL

The S70 and V70 will benefit immediately from the addition of its new sibling by offering a new system stemming from the S80's development, Stability and Traction Control, or STC. STC utilizes the already available ABS hardware and enhanced software programming to aid in traction control.

Stability and Traction Control builds on Volvo's TRACS (low-speed traction control system) by operating at all road speeds. If the STC unit detects slippage in one drive well upon start up, it applies that wheel's brake in stages until the slippage stops. The system defines "low speed" as up to about 25 mph. Above that speed, the STC unit slows a slipping drive wheel by reducing engine torque by limiting fuel supply. This function maintains drive-wheel traction while accelerating at speed, such as while passing, or while driving on a slippery road. Reaction time of the STC system is about 15 milliseconds, which translates to about two feet of travel at 60 mph.

Classic detailing tips for your vintage vehicle

Americans are passionate about their automobiles and there is a new-found zeal in collecting and restoring the classic car. Collectors and automobile hobbyists find that tips and tricks to maintain a vehicle can add additional value to that vintage classic.

Instead of paying a professional to spruce up your classic, Dennis Gage, host of TNN's new automotive series My Classic Car, and Jim Richardson, the series' restoration expert, share the following quick tips for short term appearance enhancement. Relative to longterm protection and preservation of your classic car, Gage and Richardson suggest: Do your detailing from the bottom up and the inside, out. Start with the chassis and engine. Make sure they are clean and freshly painted. Get proper engine room decals from the club for your specific marquee (brand of car), and install them in the proper place. Use a good vinyl protectant to wipe down rubber, plastic and painted metal parts under the hood.

Use a small brush and lacquer thinner to clean stains from your carburetor. Make sure belts and hoses are fresh.

Vacuum, then brush your car's fabric upholstery using a soft brush. Use a good quality leather dressing. Do not use saddle soap, which can smear the dyes in the leather. Restitch loose seams and cut any dangling threads. Wipe down vinyl with a special vinyl protectant. Clean and wax chrome, then wipe it down with a window cleaner for extra sparkle.

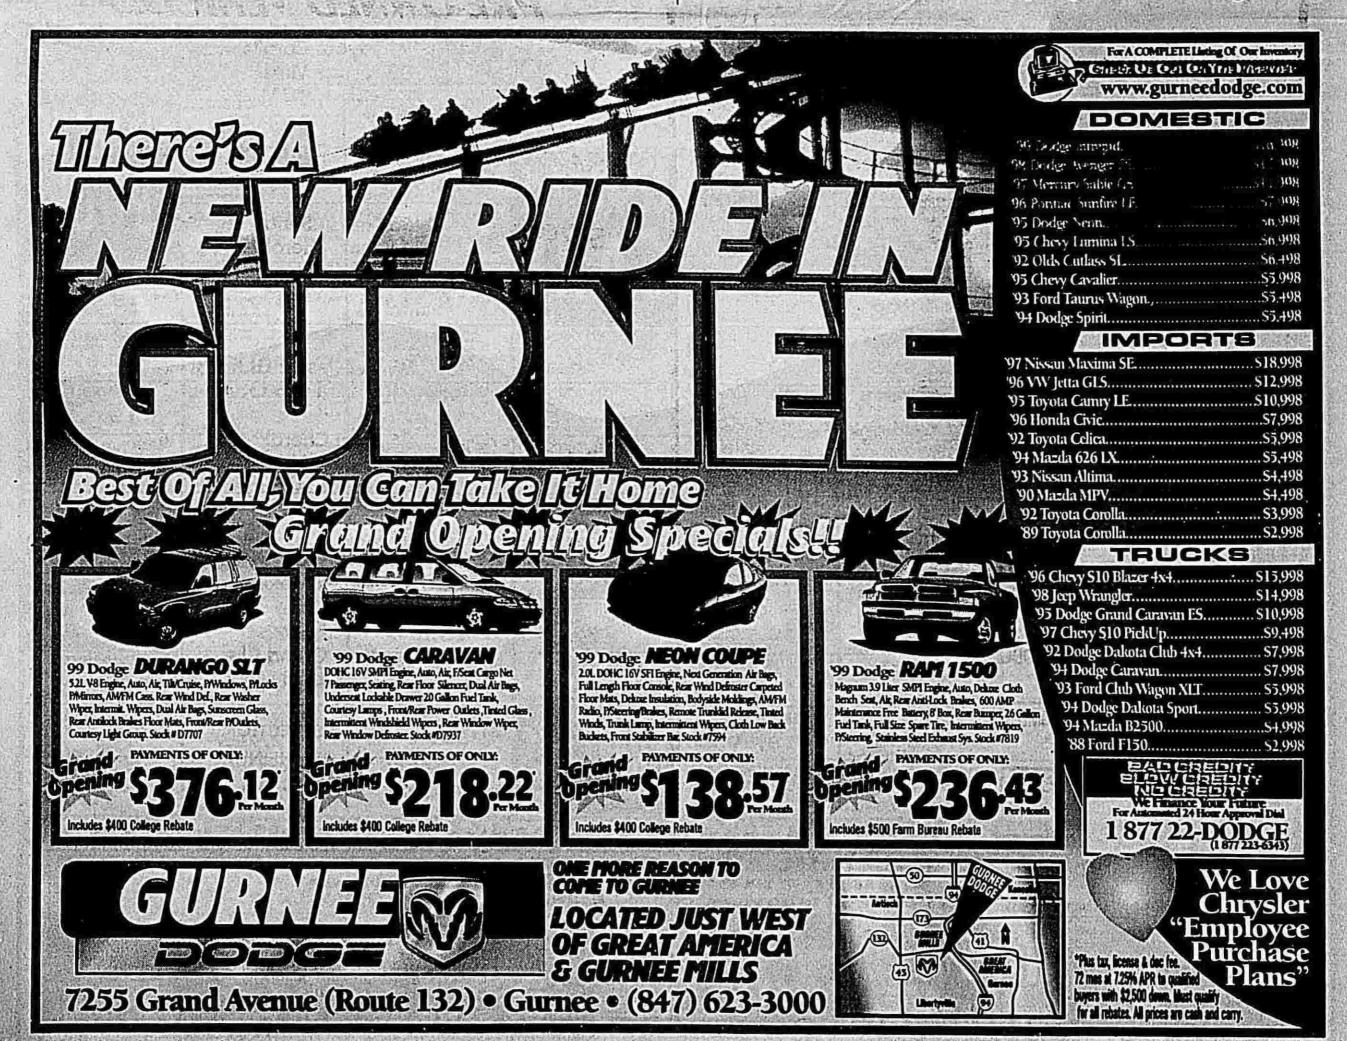

Touch up chips or nicks in your car's finish with a small brush and touch up paint, which is available from automotive paint stores.

To maximize the shine in your auto's finish, use a polishing compound to rub out dullness. Do this by hand with extreme caution so as to not remove any good paint and damage the finish. Coat your auto with a good quality carnauba automotive wax (without any cleaners or abrasives). Inspect your work carefully in bright sunlight for places you might have missed and touch them up. Keep a selection of soft brushes on hand to remove polish or wax residue from around bright work (chrome and stainless/metallic trim) and crevices.

The following schedule information relates to TNN's 1997 telecast schedule:
Shadetree Mechanic, TNN: The Nashville Network's automotive how-to program hosted by Sam Memmolo and Dave Bowman, is telecast each Sunday at 9:30 AM (repeats at 4:30 PM; all times Eastern).

My Classic Car, hosted by Dennis Gage with auto restoration tips by Jim Richardson, is telecast each Saturday at 1:00 PM (repeats Sunday at 3:30 PM; all times Eastern).

Please consult local television listing for preemptions or schedule changes.

The Bard is back!

From films to festivals, there is much ado about William Shakespeare he's hotter than ever in 1999

By KORRINA GROM Staff Reporter

o be or not to be a fan of William Shakespeare, that is the question.
The Bard is back, and he's hotter than ever in 1999. He has become the object of obsession for the film world. Teen-agers who drudged through Elizabethan English only when forced by teachers are now flocking to local cinemas to catch the latest Bardinspired film.

Festivals across the country, including a few here in Illinois, are being held in celebration of Shakespeare, reviving the plays and sonnets which were once only read in classrooms.

This resurgence of everything Shakespeare essentially began in 1998, with a famous movie winning seven Oscars, including best picture, beating out the chosen favorite, "Saving Private Ryan."

Members of the Literary Arts Club at the College of alike.

Lake County hold a Shakespeare festival each year. As part of the event, displays are made. This one depicts the Globe theater in England.

was released. Two were released in 1995.

A sharp rise occurred in 1996, when 10 Shakespeare-based movies hit TV and cinemas. Headlining the movies was "William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet," Director Baz Luhrmann's installment was highly modern, with guns replacing swords.

Six movies were released in 1997, one of which included "A Thousand Acres," which was based on Shakespeare's "King Lear."

Then came the definitive year of the Bard. The Oscar-winning "Shakespeare in Love" hit the screens in 1998, winning the hearts of critics and audiences

"I rather loved the movie," said Susan Kane, English instructor at College of Lake County. "We see Shakespeare through the lens of the more mature Shakespeare to be taken back in time to the harem-scarem, irresponsible Shakespeare. I tried to put it in the context of the younger Shakespeare."

Kane, who is vice president of the school's literary arts club, thought the Bard was well-portrayed by Joseph Fiennes. However, liberties were taken with his character.

"He couldn't possibly have had writer's cramp," said Kane.
Overall, Kane enjoyed the film. Elizabeth Siedlecki, however, had a different opinion.

"I was not pleased at all with the character that was portrayed," said Siedlecki. "It wasn't my favorite movie. Visually it was very nice."

The two women sat at a small coffee shop in the heart of Grayslake sipping coffee, discussing Shakespeare at length. They often quoted bits of his work, from "Macbeth" to "Much Ado About Nothing," all the while proving that the sparks of interest in the Bard have erupted into a full-blown fire.

The fire is evident this year, as the 10 films based on Shake-

"O." "Romeo Must Die." "Macbeth in Manhattan."

No, these are not rip-offs or parodies of famous Shakespearean works. They are films scheduled to hit the movie theater near you in coming months. "O," which is the play "Othello" is set in high school.

"Romeo Must Die," based on, who could have guessed,
"Romeo and Juliet." This installment in a series of modernized Shakespeare-based movies will tell the story of a young Chinese businessman (Jet Li) in New York who is asked to broker peace between two mobs. In the meantime, he falls in love with the daughter (singer Aaliyah) of the other side's leader.

Gloria Rueben, who plays Jeanie Boulet in TV's "ER," will star as Lady Macbeth in "Macbeth in Manhattan," which is the Shakespeare work set in, where else, Manhattan.

Overkill on Shakespeare? Perhaps. The number of Shakespeare-based movies that are released each year has increased greatly. In 1994, only one movie based on one of the Bard's works Knock, knock, Louisville! Who's there? Columnists!

omeone once said, "No man is an island."

I assume this also applies to columnists. Of course, during pregnancy I was sometimes described as "big as a house," but I don't think that quite makes me an island. So I figured it was time to abandon the computer screen in my humble hut and seek out the wisdom and companionship of my peers on the mainland.

In other words, I joined the National Society of Newspaper Columnists (NSNC) and attended their annual conference this past weekend in Louisville, Kentucky.

My husband, who knows how reticent I can be around strangers, unselfishly offered to join me on the trip.

trip.
"You don't know any of the other columnists yet. I don't want you to be alone." he told me.

"Oh, that's so sweet of you. But aren't you going to be bored sitting there with me while they talk about column writing?"

"Who said anything about THAT? While you're sitting in the conference, I'll go fishing."

Like I said-sweet.
So off we went ("sweetie" and me) to Louisville, Kentucky for 4 days of fishing. I planned to fish for comradeship and enlightenment,

LIFE'S A BEAR

and he planned to fish for...well,

The trip from here to Louisville took almost seven hours, most of it spent driving through Indiana. What's it like driving through Indiana? Well, let's just say that the scenic highlight of that drive was the series of knock-knock jokes printed on the Indiana road construction signs.

After that, I understood the inspiration behind these song lyrics: "Indiana wants me...but I can't go back there."

The conference was attended by columnists from newspapers large and small, from New York to Hawaii. Speakers and panelists included, to name a few, syndicated Chicago Tribune columnist Bob Greene, Pulitzer finalist Don Kaul of the Des Moines Register, and editors Greg Moore of the Boston Globe and Eric Effron of Brill's Content.

We stayed at the Galt House, a grand hotel that is situated in the heart of downtown Louisville, overlooking the Ohio River in front of the riverboat docks. The hotel is so big it sits astride both sides of the street with a covered walkway connecting the halves.

The only drawback to the hotel's size was the sheer number of conventions and attendant crowds of hotel guests. Along with the columnists, the hotel was also the site for a Baptist Women's Retreat, a Presbyterian Ministry conference, and the Karate Nationals. Not only did that make it difficult to get an elevator, but also it was harder for the NSNC to choose a convention group to compete against.

You see, the columnists' group has an annual tradition of instigating outlandish competitions against other convention guests. In other words, they make their own fun. Past competitions have included playing midnight croquet with flashlights against a company of Marines (the columnists lost) and competing in a spelling bee against a group of English professors (the columnists won, much to the chagrin of the professors).

So, this year, the contest choicewas either get religion, or kick some butt. It seemed more fun to kick some butt (or in this case, get our butts kicked), so the NSNC "Director of Fun", Diane Ketchum (formerly of the New York Times), set up a karate exhibition on Saturday night in ourhospitality suite. The exhibition pitted "Big Bob" Hill, conference host from the Louisville Courier-Journal, against a 9-year-old karate green belt named Amber.

Considering the extent of Bob's karate talent, we figured it was an even match.

While Big Bob did make a valiant effort, which mostly consisted of protecting sensitive parts of his anatomy, he apparently is familiar with another song lyric: "Know when to hold 'em...know when to fold 'em." When Big Bob lost his balance during the 'contest,' he wisely remained prone, as Amber jumped victoriously atop his fallen body and yelled, "Hieeeee YAAAI"

Despite the 'defeat', the conference was a worthwhile experience for me. I made some new acquaintances and learned valuable tips about this profession of column writing, while experiencing the sights and sounds of Louisville, from Churchill Downs to the Louisville Slugger museum.

Unfortunately, while I was lucky enough to enjoy the company of some big 'fish', my husband didn't fare as well. He made the mistake of heading back over the bridge to Indiana to try a $10 fishing spot, recommended by the locals, that goes by the name of "Bill's Five Lakes." Unfortunately, "Bill's Five Lakes" was, in reality, more like "Bill's Five Fished-Out Ponds"

Fished-Out Ponds."

Which leads us both to believe that somewhere near that place, he must have neglected to notice another series of Indiana road construction signs:

"Knock, knock." "Who's there?" "Sucker!"

BARD: Shakespeare's popularity on the rise

speare's works are released. Two, "A Midsummer NIght's Dream" and "10 Things I Hate About You," were instant hits at theaters. Eight others will be released in coming months, including "Titus," "O," "Hamlet," "Midsummer," "Love's Labour's Lost," "Macbeth in Manhattan," and "Romeo Must Die."

The question is, why the resurgence?

Much ado about Shakespeare?

"There Shakespeare, on whose forehead climb the crowns o' the world; Oh eyes sublime, with tears and laughter for all time!" said poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

How true her statement rings today. But why is Shakespeare so popular today?

"I personally think that people today are taking still another and deeper look at the great literature, of which Shakespeare remains a vital part, because it allows us to pose the vital questions about life," said Kane. "Perhaps this is truer this year because 1999 is a year of expectancy as well as foreboding; the new millennium is just around the corner!"

"We're having war when there should be love," said Kane. "We go to 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' to see if we can capture some of that love."

Kane said the themes in Shakespeare's works are representative of today, including politics, the aftermath of war, revenge, hatred, love and spirituality.

"Love, in its many forms, remains the greatest theme, and we are all curious about Shakespeare himself and the passions of his own life," said Kane. "Questions about the nature of Heaven are reflected in 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,' where even the lowly Bottom has an opportunity to discover the joys and privileges of an ethereal realm."

"Shakespeare evokes so many of the important questions," said Kane. "I'm not saying he has the answers, but he gives us, today, the same opportunity to discuss the questions that the Elizabethans were asking in his time."

Thus is the apparent reason for the resurgence of Shakespeare. There is so much in his work that people can relate to. One student in the literary arts club said "there is a timelessness to Shakespeare's plots. People still do the same dumb things. As Puck says, 'Oh, what fools we mortals be.'

In the truest form, Shakespeare's plays give people a look at many aspects of human life, including war, death, hatred, love, spirituality and the afterlife.

"It's the relevance of ideas, and the timelessness of themes," said Kane Shakespeare does not ignore the comedic aspects of life, as he has shown in such plays as "Much Ado About Nothing" or "The Comedy of Errors." Even some of his tragedies have comedic elements. For example, as Kane and Siedlecki pointed out, the gravediggers in "Hamlet" provide comedic relief while saying some provocative things.

Most of all, Shakespeare's works appeal to children and adults alike. While the resurgence, according to Kane and Siedlecki, has been brought about as more people are becoming well-educated, even children can relate to the Bard's works.

"Even a child can relate to the language of Shakespeare," said Kane.

The Bard-inspired movies of recent years reflect this ageless appeal, as several movies, including the hit "Romeo & Juliet," have been made with the younger audience in mind. Others, such as "Shakespeare in Love," appeal to more mature au-

The women agreed that Shakespeare's works speak to the soul. They represent that something in all of us can be transformed. There is a part of Shakespeare we can all relate to, whether it's true love as seen in "Romeo and Juliet" or depression, as seen in "Hamlet," or acceptance, as seen with Bottom and Titania in "A Midsummer NIght's Dream."

Festivals and such

"When the Americans went over to England and built a new Globe theater, it opened up Shakespeare to everyone," said Siedlecki. "Tourism and festivals, including our new Navy Pier theater, have increased interest in Shakespeare."

cLC's literary arts club, along with many other colleges across the nation, hold Shakespeare festivals annually. At CLC, the club sets up displays about the Bard, and members dress up in Elizabethan-era costumes.

Barat College has held a Shakespeare on the Green festival for eight years. It will present "Richard III" this year, starting July 16, running each weekend until Aug. 1. The play will be performed on the front lawn of the college at 8 p.m. The event is free. Many states, including Illinois, have annual Shakespeare festivals. The Illinois Shakespeare Festival, which began in 1978, will feature "Richard III" and "Merry Wives of Windsor" this year, with performances held at Illinois State University. The performances began June 16 and will run until Aug. 1.

Other states holding Shakespeare festivals include Utah, Texas, Oregon, New Jersey, Idaho, Kentucky, Colorado, Georgia and Alabama. Several big cities, including Chicago, Cincinatti, and Cleveland, also have festivals to honor the Bard.

In the Bard's cards

The future of Shakespeare's popularity is uncertain. The movies being released could fail, showing that the resurgence has only been a short-lived one.

However, as true fans of Shakespeare believe, the Bard will long live on. His timelessness and relevance to our time will ensure that Shakespeare will remain in our hearts, minds and souls, providing inspiration to move away from war and toward peace, move away from rejection and toward acceptance, and move away from hatred and toward love.

To be or not to be a fan of William Shakespeare, that is the question. 'Tis your choice.

Golfers tee up to support health education

When the Robert Crown Center hosts its 16th Annual Golf Invitational on July 26th at the Hinsdale Golf Club, over 150 golfers are expected to turn out to support children and their health education needs.

"Each year we continue to attract more golfers," noted Brian Mulhern of Clarendon Hills, Chairman of this year's Invitational. "More and more people want to support the Robert Crown Center and this event, and we are determined to find ways to accommodate each and every one of them. In addition to a fun day of golf, we also have a raffle and elegant evening activities including a cocktail reception, dinner, and live entertainment."

This year is the 25th Anniversary of the Robert Crown Center.
With many exciting programs on the horizon, the theme of this year's golf event is "Swing Into the Millennium." The live entertainment for the activities will feature swing music.

The Robert Crown Invitational is traditionally one of the most popular summer charity events for local golfers. A great many participants have played in the event for all 16 years of its existence. This year, it is also a Lexus Champions for Charity event, one of only 175 designated golf tournaments in the country. The Center's participation in this exclusive opportunity was made possible by McGrath Lexus of Chicago.

Proceeds from the event will be used to support the operation of the Robert Crown Center for Health Education in Hinsdale, which provides instruction to 175,000 children annually in Drug Abuse Prevention, Sex Education, AIDS Awareness and General Health Education.

For more information, call the Robert Crown Center for Health Education at (630) 325-1935.

THEATRE REVIEW

We love you 'Peggy Sue'

By GLORIA DAVIS Correspondent

The popularity of the nostalgia and the music of the 1950's and '60's with audiences of all ages, is continuous. Grandma and Mom love the memories and their teenagers dig bebop, look at the resurgence of capri pants!

"Grease" just proved it could still draw a Broadway crowd and win a few awards to boot and "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" remains a good ticket in big and little theaters all over the country after all these years.

Now, a World Premiere musical just opening at the Marriott Lincolnshire Theater makes a legitimate bid to up this musical memorabilia ante to a mighty three as the musical version of "Peggy Sue Got Married" rocks and bubbles all over Marriott's stage.

Assuming that this "World Premiere' version" is not a finished product having not had a Broadway gig, this fresh version radiates the same rockin' rhythm, doo wop dancin', and cute costuming of the other two, adding even more of a plot for good measure.

This "Peggy Sue" is bouncier and more fun than the famed tuneless movie version, but it is a little heavy on the "big sound" musical numbers identified with songwriter Bob Gaudio, who still has us turning the volume up every time his great "Can't Take My Eyes Off of You" pops up on the car radio.

With a little trimming of some of the lesser numbers that all sound alike, and the addition of a softer romantic number or two, "Peggy Sue" should have the musical shelf life it deserves.

Marriott veteran Susan Moniz does her usual polished job both musically and dramatically in the title role. We do question costumer Nancy Missimi's decision to give her the plainest washed out vintage prom dress on stage in addition to shoes that look slightly orthopedic. If it's a height problem, ballet slippers would be better with the waltz length gown.

Marriott Theatre in Lincolnshire presents "Peggy Sue Got Married" starring Susan Moniz and David Burnham

Moniz's best moments are in the duet "Two Kinds of Fire" with Stef Tovar who delivers a believable beatniky leather-jacketed Michael. The motorcycle he rides adds a great touch!

If we are to judge by the two young ladies sitting next to us, David Burnham, who plays Peggy Sue's high school love and ex-husband, might be our local version of Ricky Martin, as his great looks and equally great delivery of songwriter Gaudio's big sound command Marriott's stage when he's on it. Burnham shines in the numbers he does with his high school singing group, The Definitions, especially "One of the Guys," and romantic duets with Moniz.

Because the stage lacks the versatile power of the camera, Moniz never looks quite young enough when she mysteriously returns to high school for real at their 25th reunion, and Burnham doesn't look old enough to be her 40-year-old ex-husband who tries to woo his '60's prom queen back.

Paul Slade Smith does some scene stealing as the high school nerd who makes good, as does another Marrriott veteran, Paula Scrofano, but she just doesn't look old enough to be Moniz's mother.

Enjoyable for the entire family in its present state, "Peggy Sue Got Married," wields great promise for the future. The ultimate family fun spot to open in Lake County

HOROSCOPE

Aries – March 21/April 20
Be friendly to an acquaintance whom you meet early in the week, Aries. He or she is nervous and needs someone to trust. Be there for him or her. A loved one asks a favor of you. While you want to help, don't. Getting involved only will cause you a lot of problems.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
Don't be stubborn when dealing with close friends this week. Instead of just forcing your opinion on them, listen to what they have to say. If you pay attention, you'll see that what they're saying is not too different from your own point of view. Leo plays an important role late in the week.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
There's so much going on this week, Gemini, that you just don't know where to turn. Take some time to organize your thoughts and prioritize your schedule. It's the only way that you'll make any progress. A close friend asks to borrow money. Try to help this person out, because you know that he or she is trustworthy.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
Don't beat yourself up over a mistake that you make early in the week. Your error doesn't cause any major problems, and it easily is fixed. So, just correct the problem, and continue to work diligently. A loved one asks for your opinion about a personal situation. Be honest with him or her.

Leo – July 23/August 23
An acquaintance confides in you regarding a personal matter. Listen to what he or she has to say, and try to be supportive. Resist the urge to tell anyone else what you've learned. You have no right to spread this news around. The person whom you've been seeing has a surprise for you. Enjoy it!

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't worry about a presentation that you have to give this week.
Those involved are eager to hear what you have to say. Just stay relaxed, and you'll do fine. That special someone takes you out for a night on the town. Enjoy yourself, because you're sure to have a good time.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
Don't let a problem at work get you down early in the week, Libra. Just continue to work diligently, and you will do well. Remember that this is just a job. Your personal life is more important. Spend time with loved ones and close friends this week. You're sure to enjoy yourself.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
Try to control your ego this week, Scorpio. While you are talented, you're not the only person who can get things done. Share the spotlight with those who deserve
it. A loved one gets angry at you for no apparent reason. Try to find out what is wrong, and help him or her deal with it. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
You really stick your foot in your mouth early in the week when talking with a business associate. Instead of trying to come up with something witty to say to ease the situation, just explain yourself. This will make you look much better. Pisces plays a key role.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Try not to be too harsh with a loved one who gets into trouble. He or she has good intentions; they just backfire. Keep this in mind when talking with him or her. An old friend calls you out of the blue late in the week. Make plans to see him or her. You're sure to learn a lot of interesting information.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't let a business associate force you to do something that you don't agree with. Stand your ground. The higher-ups will be on your side. The person whom you've been seeing stops calling. While you're upset, try to realize that this is for the best. He or she wasn't the one for you.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
You have a lot to do this week, Pisces. So, don't let your friends distract you from getting things accomplished. A lot of people are counting on you. Don't let them down. Sagittarius plays an important role,

'The General's Daughter' a brutally boring movie n the trailer for The General's Daughter, Paul Brenner (John Travolta) explores the possible reasons for a young captain's murder. Anger? Jealousy? Greed? Pure homicidal mania?

Along the same lines, I pondered the reasons why Director Simon West made this movie. Greed? Jealousy (over truly great military murder movies)? Pure enjoyment of perverseness?

Capt. Elisabeth Campbell (Leslie Stefanson), daughter of much-liked Army General "Fighting Joe" Campbell (James Cromwell), is found murdered on an urban warfare site of Fort MacCallum. She is pinned to the ground naked, spread-eagle, tied down to stakes. Cringing yet?

Instead of merely showing the body once, several aerial shots are shown. A little too gruesome for me, thanks.

During Brenner's exchanges with the general, I somewhat expected the general to scream, "You can't handle the truth!" in a great Jack Nicholson-esque moment from the enjoyable military murder mystery, A Few Good Men.

It was also a stretch for me to see Cromwell as a general instead of a farmer and his cute pig, Babe.

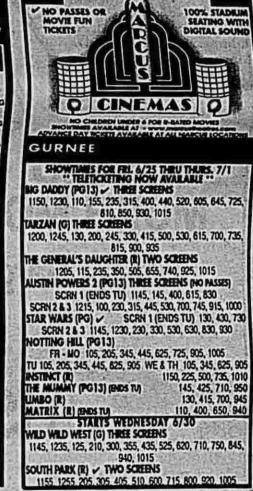

Travolta definitely gave an Oscar-worthy performance, as did Stowe. But the references and visuals of perverse sexuality were not at all fun to see.

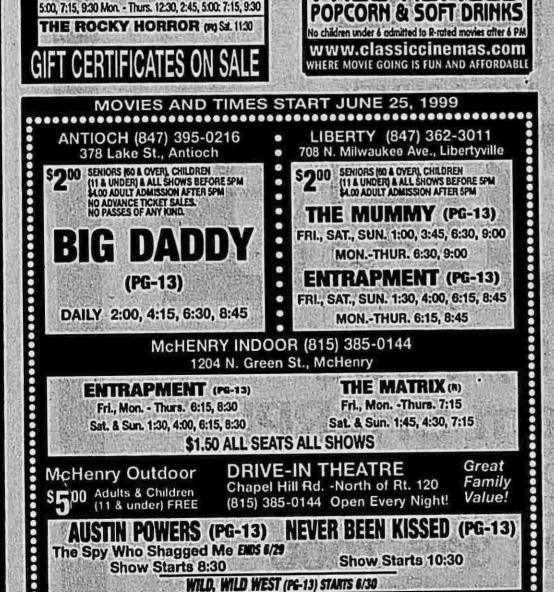

For that, I give this movie two out of five popcorn boxes.

The hottest (and last) summer vacation deals of the century

Plan wisely, and you won't be fumbling for an answer come fall when someone asks how you spent the last summer vacation of the century. And with hotels and resorts throughout the world competing for Americans' vacation dollars, now is the time to plan a summer vacation worth talking about.

From Times Square in New York City to the venerable avenues of London, hotels are offering summer packages, special rates, discounts and incentives, many with a millennium connection.

At four hotels in London, Millennium Hotels and Resorts is offering "Warm Welcome Rates" that include English breakfast daily, VAT, and four nights for the price of three. July 1 through September 7. 1999 the following properties are offering the special rates (in U.S. dollars): Millennium Britannia Mayfair, $250 per night; Millennium Chelsea Knightsbridge, $230 per night; Millennium Gloucester London, $225 per night; Millennium Bailey's London, $225 per night; and Copthorne Tara London, $199 per night. Each property is offering the fourth night free to guests who stay for three consecutive nights.

Every summer, millions of tourists pour into New York City. This year, more vacationers than ever will want to visit Times Square, where the eyes of the world will be focused on New Year's Eve.

Two hotels in the Times Square area, Millennium Broadway and The Premier, are offering summer packages and accommodations literally just steps away from "the Crossroads of the World."

Millennium Broadway, located on 44th Street just steps from Times Square, is offering a "Broadway Nights" package that includes Friday or Saturday night accommodations now through December 18, 1999, pre-theater dinner for two in Restaurant Charlotte, two tickets to a Broadway show, and brunch for two. The popsicles, which combine the world's most sophisticated beverage with an American favorite summertime treat, are served throughout the day in The Premier Lounge.

The Millenium Hilton, located across the street from the World Trade Center, is offering guests a City Summer Weekend Rate of just $149 per night on any Friday or Saturday night June 25 through September 6, 1999. The rate includes accommodations in the Four Diamond hotel, which is convenient to Downtown's cultural and shopping highlights, such as the Native American Museum, Battery Park and South Street Seaport.

In Short Hills, NJ, the Hilton Short Hills and its Spa are cashing in on childhood nostalgia to bring in grown-up guests with its "Five Diamond Sleep-Away Camp." Customized programs can include cooking classes with the hotel's award-winning chefs, wine tastings or seminars, cigar dinners, spa and salon services. A "camp counselor" helps groups plan personalized "camp" experiences. "Camp fees" start at $375 per person for single occupancy or $655 double occupancy for a one-day camp beginning Friday night, for two to 12 people. Included are accommodations. dinner in the hotel's Five Diamond restaurant, The Dining Room, and choice of a spa massage or body treatment.

Guides help steer pleasure travelers to West Michigan destinations

People planning West Michigan vacations or get-aways this summer can rely on three new travel guides, free for the asking from West Michigan Tourist Association (WMTA).

The 1999 West Michigan Travel Guide is WMTA's ultimate vacation planner. It describes more than a thousand destinations that include lodging, restaurants, shopping, campgrounds, canoe liveries, parks, fishing resorts and more. Its easyto-use "Fun Index" points visitors to more than 350 attractions ranging from dune rides to excursion cruises and boat charters, summer theater, wineries, museums and zoos. A calendar lists major spring and summer festivals and events scheduled throughout the west half of Michigan's Lower Peninsula, from the Indiana border north to Mackinac Is-

The 15th annual West Michigan
Golf Guide identifies more than 60 of West Michigan's top golf courses.
Detailed information on featured courses is enhanced by regional maps that pinpoint their locations.
It's pocket-sized, making it a quick and easy glove-box resource. Nearly a million golfers have counted on its information since WMTA first introduced the Golf Guide in 1984.

The Lake Michigan Circle Tour & Lighthouse Guide goes beyond West Michigan. In fact, it guides tourists completely around Lake Michigan's 1100-mile designated Circle Tour route, through four states and landscapes that range from urban to wilderness. A map pinpoints 110 beacons around the four-state shoreline, making it one of the most complete Lake Michigan lighthouse references available. Its directory identifies the style of each lighthouse, when it was built, whether it's publicly accessible and if a maritime museum is on site.

Loaded with photographs, the 1999 Lake Michigan Circle Tour & Lighthouse Guide highlights" hot spots", "parks," and "secrets" that only the locals know. A special feature focuses on Lake Michigan's unique sand dunes and their fulgurite formations — commonly called petrified lightening. A calendar of events spotlights festivals being celebrated this summer all along the lakeshore in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Any or all three of the 1999 guides can be obtained at no charge from WMTA's Grand Rapids-based Visitor Information Center, 1253 Front Ave. NW, just off US 131, one block north of Leonard Street. They can be ordered from an on-line catalog via WMTA's website at www.wmta.org or by calling toll free, 800-442-2084, ext. 1.

WMTA is a nonprofit organization, dedicated to promoting West Michigan as a tourist destination. The oldest continuously-operated regional tourism association in the nation, WMTA has been the authority on West Michigan travel and vacation opportunities for 82 years.

You need to feed those trees

With spring just around the corner, it's time to get out and work in the yard. This year, why not pay special attention to those trees and shrubs on your property?

Horticulturists say that spring is a great time to get your trees and shrubs in shape. One of the best ways to do this is by fertilizing. That's right — fertilizing.

Now, this does not mean taking a few extra laps around the tree with your grass fertilizer. Those types of fertilizers are absorbed quickly by grass roots before they have a chance of reaching your trees' roots. It means feeding trees and shrubs with specially formulated food and nutrients that get directly to the roots.

If the thought of fertilizing always has made you a bit nervous, don't worry. Several products on the market now have made getting healthy, fast-growing trees, shrubs and evergreens easier than ever.

Gone are the days when you had to fool with messy, smelly sprays and granular fertilizers. Now, fertilizing trees and shrubs can be as easy as hammering a spike into the ground. In fact, with one product, Jobe's® Fertilizer Spikes, that's really all you have to do.

Specially designed to feed trees and shrubs at the roots, where they need it most, Jobe's Fertilizer Spikes for Trees and Shrubs act like a vitamin for the tree—a long-lasting vitamin. Created with a special slow-release formula, it supplies the entire plant with nutrients for at least three months.

Since the spikes feed plants underground, they make yards safer for children, pets and other animals. In addition, you won't have to worry about wasteful chemical runoff polluting nearby water sources.

Fertilizing trees and shrubs is easy with the root feeder. To use it, insert the feeding tube into the soil around the plant's drip line and then connect it to a hose.

Fun on the 4th: Celebrating America's independence

Food, fireworks and fun. It's what we've come to expect every Fourth of July in the United States. Looking for new activities to help commemorate Independence Day? Following are suggestions for enjoying America's summer holiday like never before.

If you choose to stay close to home for your Fourth of July celebration, you might consider organizing a special picnic for the entire neighborhood as well as your family. Obtain a one-day permit to block off your street and enjoy a Fourth of July block party. Grill outdoors and coordinate a menu with your neighbors so there are plenty of side dishes and desserts to last throughout the evening. Organize group activities such as a talent show, lawn bowling and volleyball.

Before the big day begins, build a first aid kit with plenty of the first aid items most used by kids - adhesive bandages. 3M Nexcare Waterproof Bandages with Tattoo Designs feature a unique bandage shape that provides superior protection for injured skin by sealing around the pad to block out water, dirt and germs to promote faster wound healing. In addition to adhesive bandages, your kit might also include a 3M Nexcare Instant Cold Pack that activates instantly - no refrigeration needed - and reduces pain and swelling caused by bruises, bumps and sprains that may occur during an afternoon of activity.

A first aid kit is also a good idea for those who would prefer to celebrate the Fourth on a special road trip. Spend the day visiting such national landmarks as the Golden Gate Bridge, the Grand Canyon, South Dakota's Mount Rushmore, the Gateway arch in St. Louis, Philadelphia's Liberty Bell or Washington D.C.'s many monuments.

Participating in unusual events and activities hosted by America's cities is another way to celebrate the day. Nathan's Famous annual Hot Dog-Eating Contest at New York's Coney Island and Stillwater, Oklahoma's Lawnmower Race are just two samples of unique activities that have become annual Fourth of July events. Explore your local newspaper to find those in your vicinity.

Wherever you go and whatever you do, keep safety in mind and enjoy America's big birthday party.

Bandages are a must for any summer first-aid kit. They come in a variety of fun styles that can help take the pain out of summer accidents.

Play it safe with summer sports

Play Ball! Swimmers, take your marks! Last one to the top of the hill is a ...! It's that time of year again — when kids take to the parks, pools, and backyards to play and compete.

Although the benefits of team and individual sports are plentiful and life lasting, there are also some reasons for caution and care as you send your children out to play this summer. When children run out of the house to ride bikes, rollerblades, play soccer, football or other contact sports, their parents are probably not thinking of injury. However, each year an estimated 3.2 million children, ages 14 and under, are treated in hospital emergency rooms for these injuries, while many more children are treated at sports medicine clinics and physician offices.

"The good news is that more than half of the injuries we see can be prevented," says James Kelly, M.D., director of the Brain Injury Program at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago. "By learning some basic safety precautions, using protective equipment and setting rules designed to prevent injury, kids and their parents can enjoy more of the fun of the sports they play with less worry about the risk of injury."

As part of a broad-based injury prevention program at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago, Kelly has developed a bike safety program geared toward children. Kelly will present this 45-minute long, interactive program as part of the "Play It Safe" program held at RIC Northshore in Northbrook on July 10. "Play It Safe" is one in a series of Community Health Education Programs beginning this summer at RIC Northshore - the first North Shore—based location of the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago.

Joining Dr. Kelly will be Sergeant Mike Keady from the bicycle unit of the Northbrook Police Department. With his bike in tow, Keady will discuss bicycle mechanics and tips for maintaining a safe bike. Joel Press, M.D., an RIC physiatrist and one of Chicago's leading sports medicine physicians, will also be on hand to discuss sports injuries and demonstrate important stretching and strengthening techniques for kids. The free "Play it Safe" Program will be held at RIC Northshore, 755 North Skokie Boulevard (just north of Dundee Rd.), from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. on July 10. The event is a great way for families to kick off a safe summer of fun and recreation. Refreshments will be served and all participants will receive a discount on the purchase of a bike helmet. Space in limited so interested participants must register by call 847/272-RICN (7425).

Recommended are the following tips developed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration:

TEN TIPS FOR SAFE BIKING 1. Protect your head. Wear a helmet. Never ride a bicycle without a helmet. Select a helmet that fits snugly and sits flat atop the head.

2. See and be seen. Wear clothes that make you more visible

- wear neon, florescent or other

3. Avoid biking at night. It is far more dangerous to ride at night. If you must ride at night, ride with reflectors that meet US Consumer Product Safety Commission requirements; add the brightest lights you can find to the front and rear of your bike; wear retro-reflective clothing or material (especially on your ankles, wrists, back and helmet); and only ride in areas familiar to you.

4. Stay alert. Watch out for potholes, crack, expansion joints, railroad track, wet leaves, drainage grates, or anything that could make you fall.

5. Go with flow. The same way is the right way. Ride on the right side in a straight predictable path. Always go single file in the same direction as other vehicles.

6. Check for traffic. Over 70 percent of car-bicycle crashes occur at driveways or other intersections. Before entering any street or any intersection, check for traffic.

7. Learn the rules of the road. Bicyclists must obey the same rules as motorists. Always signal your moves. Never wear headphones while riding as they impair your ability to hear traffic.

8. Assure bicycle readiness.

Make sure you can stand over the top tube of your bike. Before using your bike, check to make sure all parts are secure and working well.

Add a carrier to your bike if you need to carry things.

9. Stop it. Always check brakes before riding. Always control your speed by using your brakes. If your bicycle has hand brakes, apply the rear brake slightly before the front brake. If you cannot stop quickly, adjust your brakes.

10. Don't flip over your bicycle. If your bicycle has quick release wheels, it is your responsibility to make sure they are firmly closed at all times and to use the safety retainer if there is one.

Who does and doesn't get dental care, according to dental study

Women are more likely to visit the dentist than men. And visits to the dental office increase among those who have more income and education, say statistics from the American Dental Association/Gallup national telephone survey.

The mammoth study was conducted in 1997 and its results are now being released in a series of articles appearing in the 'Journal of the American Dental Association' and other ADA publications. In the most recent JADA article, the ADA/Gallup data was compared to dental care usage rates provided by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Center for Health Statistics, and the ADA's Agency for Health Care Policy and Research. Following are some of the

•An almost equal distribution of non-Hispanic white and non-Hispanic black adult population indicating they had visited the dentist within the past year, 74.7 percent and 71.6 percent respectively. However, other data cited in the article show dental visits by non-Hispanic whites ranged from 11.5 percent to 18.5 percent higher, compared to non-Hispanic blacks.

•The ADA/Gallup survey reveals that 76.4 percent of women aged 25 or older recorded dental visits in the past year compared with 74.5 percent of men in the same age group. However, the National Center for Health Statistics' Third National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey for the period 1988-1994 recorded fewer annual visits, 66.6 percent of women aged 25 or older compared with 59.7 percent of men.

•The ADA/Gallup survey shows that among participants 25 year or older, 59 percent with household income between $10,000 and $19,999 indicated they had visited a dentist within the past year compared with 84.9 percent of participants with annual household incomes of $50,000 or more. Other data cited in the article reveal similar findings with differing percentage rates.

•Dental care use decreased as patients' ages increased. A little over 82 percent of 25- to 34-year olds indicated they had visited a dentist within the past year. In comparison, they survey shows that 68.5 percent of participants who were 65 years of age or older indicated they had visited a dentist in the past year. Similar results were echoed by other data included in the article but with differing percentage rates.

Picking behavior battles now can create future problems

ecently, I have had several e-mails come to me regarding behavior and the "picking of battles." Several parents have asked me if I believe that picking battles is an important part of discipline and I'd like to respond to those questions at the same time here, in a general

I do not believe in the picking of battles when it comes to discipline. What I am calling the "picking of battles," is when a parent lets one thing go because another thing is going to be a more important battle. Each battle has it's lessons and it's value.

The better way to go about it is to have a structured program of appropriate rewards and consequences ready and available constantly. This prevents the need for picking which behavior you respond to and which you don't. A good program will have expectations that kids know about ahead of time so they know how to do the right thing.

Most of the time, I find that kids know how to push parent's buttons much more effectively than they know how to please their parents. The thing that parents need to remember is that complimenting good decisions and good behavior is not going to break the pattern of good behavior. I have met many parents who seem to feel that if they start to respond to the good things, that their child will stop doing them. The old "walking on egg shells"

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer,

thing. Quite the opposite. When I have seen a child given a road map on the right behavior and they way to please his or her parents, the child usually tries to continue to do those things over and over

Now, I don't mean to oversimplify and state that dealing with kids in this way is easy. By no means is it easy. If you want to think of it in a way that will make responding to behavior problems easier for you, sometimes it's easier to think that you are actually preventing future painful disasters by allowing your child to learn all of these things in your home. Your home is certainly a safer place to teach these things because you love your child.

I often refer parents to what I call "real world thinking." This is when I ask parents about how their child's behavior would be taken and reacted to by anyone else but them. Usually, parents tend to agree that their child's bad behavior is being accepted by them much more than anyone else would accept it. I also ask them if they feel that the world and people in the world will give in or "pick battles with their child?" The answer is usually a great big "no." My answer to them and to you is if you want your child to succeed by the rules our society has in place, you will make sure that you prepare your child for that knowledge and tend to all behaviors and all battles. Remember that each one holds a golden nugget of information for your child. This information will help your child to assimilate better into adult life. Anything that our children "get away with" or feel like they are getting away with, will most certainly come back to haunt them later on when someone else is not accepting the behavior as easily as others did.

It's always best to take on all behaviors when they happen. Remember that good discipline is structured, appropriate and planned ahead of time, not flying by the seat of your pants at the moment. If anyone has more specific questions about consequences, behavior programs or how to get children to behave completely, please call me and we can consult further.

Lake Forest Hospital hosts annual baby alumni party

1999 is centennial year for Lake Forest Hospital

Nearly 2,000 guests - including babies under four years, their parents and grandparents - will celebrate together when Lake Forest Hospital (LFH) hosts its annual Baby Alumni Party on July 7, from 10 a.m. to noon. The party is held, rain or shine, on the grounds between the hospital and Westmoreland Nursing Center, 660 N. Westmoreland Rd., Lake Forest.

A tradition at Lake Forest Hospital since 1948, the Baby Alumni Party is sponsored by LFH's Women's Auxiliary Board as a goodwill gesture to the community. Board member Jo Terlato is the chair of this year's event, which will also celebrate Lake Forest Hospital's centennial year.

"The Baby Alumni Party is always a special event for the LFH community," said Joe Terlato. "But this year is extraordinarily special because we're celebrating not only recent births, but the births of those born during the past 100 years."

Achieve success in sport and life

Since the day you took your very first steps as an infant, with your mind focused on the present moment — free of concern or anxiety your body relaxed and your emotions uninhibited, you had within you the force behind the means for achieving success in both sport and life.

What you had then was body mind mastery, and although you may not realize it, you have the potential for achieving it even now, says Dan Millman, author of "Body Mind Mastery: Creating Success in Sport and Life" (New World Library).

"We begin life with nearly unlimited potential," Millman says, "But then we lose touch with many of our childhood skills, through limiting beliefs, emotional conflict and physical tensions."

A former world champion trampolinist, martial arts instructor, gymnastics coach and college professor, Millman draws from decades of world-class training, research, observation, intuition and teaching to demonstrate how any form of skill training - be it sports, music, dance or martial arts - can benefit and enhance everyday life.

According to Millman, skill training can become a path to a greater goal, a doorway to personal growth or a bridge to your fullest human potential. The process begins first by understanding that it's not about dedicating your life to your training, but about dedicating your training to your life.

Featuring warm-up exercises, photos and detailed instructions on creating a daily exercise routine to help master the technique, the book also includes a section on the aging athlete.

The principles behind body mind mastery include:

 Understand the larger game — Have a realistic vision and deep awareness of your potential in a given endeavor. This requires understanding natural laws, like balance, as well as applying the power of awareness and preparation to any situation, be it job-hunting or solving a math equation.

 Develop talent — Mental, emotional and physical talent all are lactors in achieving a goal. An athlete who exercises diligently, yet hasn't developed the mental talent of concentration or the ability to apply breathing techniques to ease emotional tension, undoubtedly will meet obstacles.

Forest preserve gets funds

State Rep. Andrea Moore, R-Libertyville, presented Lake County Forest Preserve officials with $1.3 million in state funding for development of the new Independence Grove Forest Preserve.

Moore presented the check at the meeting of the forest preserve commissioners.

The new preserve is located on 1,106 acres in the Des Plaines River Valley. When completed, it will offer a wide range of recreational opportunities for area residents, including a 115-acre lake, natural trails, picnic areas and a lakeside visitors center, which will feature exhibits, environmental classrooms and meeting rooms.

Magalis appointed to RTA board

County Board chairmen from Lake, Kane, McHenry and Will counties appointed former Lake County Administrator Dwight "Ike" Magalis to a five-year term on the Regional Transportation Authority Board of Directors.

Magalis' term will begin July 1, 1999 and end June 30, 2004. He will be paid $25,000 and replaces Duane Carter, whose term ends June 30, 1999. Magalis is a consultant, having retired from Lake County government in 1997 after 32 years. He was the first county administrator of Lake County and lives in Libertyville.

Strip clubs to appeal court decision

Ordinance regulating adult entertainment upheld by judge

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI Regional Editor

An appeal is almost certain to a judge's ruling upholding a county ordinance governing adult entertainment businesses such as strip clubs and adult bookstores.

Circuit Judge Charles Scott ruled last week that the new county ordinance is constitutional, finding no merit to a 10-count lawsuit challenging the validity of the suit on First-Amendment grounds.

Lake County Assistant State's Attorney Mitch Hoffman is pleased with the judge's ruling upholding the ordinance.

"Obviously we feel it was a good decision, we agree with it. We also know the plantiffs are going to appeal, so it's not over yet," he said.

The lawsuit challenging the ordinance was filed late last year by XLP Corp., which represents the strip clubs Dancers on Route 12 near Palatine and Baby Dolls on Route 12 near Wadsworth. The corporation also owns two adult bookstores and video stores near Baby Dolls.

Chicago attorney Michael Null, who represents XLP Corp., could not be reached for comment.

The ordinance, if upheld on appeal, would require licensing of all the adult entertainment businesses in unincorporated areas. It would also prohibit totally nude dancing and personal "lap dances." There would also be a regulation requiring an 8-foot separation between dancers and patrons and there would be no direct tipping of dancers.

Adult entertainment businesses would also be required to close by midnight.

Hoffman emphasized the goal of the ordinance is to protect residents against the negative impacts of adult entertainment businesses, such as increased crime, prostitution, and deterioration of neighborhoods.

"It's not an attempt to ban erotic dancing. It's an attempt to place some restrictions on erotic dancing," he said.

Hoffman said the state's attorney's office does take the ordinance seriously and will take steps to enforce it. He indicated that there is a possibility that establishments who fail to meet the licensing requirements could be shut down.

"Our intent is to enforce the ordinance. We realize there's a possibility of an appeal so we've got to study all possible options and see what happens next," he said.

The ordinance was established following a controversy surrounding the opening of a strip club known as Scores in Mundelein in November 1997.

County Board member Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) was one of the board members who led opposi-

Power plant meeting to address concerns of county residents

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI Regional Editor

For many citizens, just to talk about locating a natural gas-fired power plant in their community raises a red flag.

Earlier this spring, the Village of Island Lake Board went on record as "being against any natural gas fueled power plants in or near the village." Another company's proposal to locate a facility in Libertyville has also generated much public concern.

In attempt to address residents questions, Lake County officials are planning to host an informational meeting sometime in late July on the issue of the new electrical generating plants. A meeting date has not yet been set.

Lake County Board Chairman Jim LaBelle (R-Zion) and board member Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside) sent a letter to more than

Watershed ordinance draws flood of views

Environmental groups excited, developers upset about changes

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI City Editor

A battle is brewing over proposed changes that are being made to Lake County's watershed development ordinance.

On the one side, environmental groups see the ordinance as a needed step to protect wetlands, lakes and streams and to prevent flooding. But developers believe the ordinance will stifle growth. The Lake County Stormwater Management Commission has proposed more than 110 changes to the watershed development ordinance, the first revisions since the ordinance was adopted in

Firm sells composters at truck sales

By Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom Correspondent

Jeff Tylkowski's "Compost Happens" t-shirt fit perfectly with the event last Saturday at the College of Lake County (CLC).

Tylkowski, an environmentallyconscious science teacher from Gurnee, volunteered to unload, sell and distribute two semi-trailer loads of "The Earth Machine" backyard composters to scores of Lake County residents who showed up at CLC's parking lot 6.

Phil Shepherd, marketing manager for Norseman Plastics (manufacturers of The Earth Machine) out of Toronto, Canada said, "The turnout for this event has been great and the volunteers phenomenal. We've gone through a whole trailer, at 1,250 machines per trailer, in roughly two hours."

Why would someone want to spend part of their Saturday standing in a long line, in hot weather, waiting to buy an 80-gallon capacity black plastic composter?

"My husband wants to teach our girls about composting. It's his project," said Susan Schwarm of Grayslake as she hauled away one of the machines with the help of her daughters Ellen and Caroline.

Doug Rapp came from Mundelein to pick up a composter. "I've been composting manually to be environmentally conscious. I thought about doing this (using the machine) for a while. Plus I knew showing up today would be a fun event."

Because the composters were funded by the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO), they're valued at $80 but were sold for $20.

Shepherd said, "SWALCO's longterm objective is diverting waste from landfills." About 14 percent of the residential waste in those landfills is food waste. This means about 300 tons of the more than 2,100 tons of municipal garbage generated daily in Lake County is unwanted or unusable food.

The composting machines help keep organic waste from landfills by providing a natural way to recycle grass, leaves, kitchen scraps and other organic waste. (Shepherd advised against placing meat and bones in composters because it could create a foul smell and attract the likes of rodents, raccoons and maggots.)

Through the machine's composting magic, what goes in will eventually come out as rich soil for house and garden plants.

In addition to the CLC Grayslake sites, truckload sales were also held Saturday in Waukegan, Long Grove, Highland Park and Lake Forest. A SWALCO spokeswoman said that more than 5,000 machines were distributed.

Victory Lakes hosts community preview

By JACLYN GRAHAM Staff Intern

Mark your calendars for a family day of fun and information at the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center's "Community Preview." From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sunday, June 27, at the center on 1050 Red Oak Lane (on the Victory Lakes campus), the community is urged to come familiarize themselves with the center and its services at the preview.

"It's important for members of families and the community to come to the preview so they know what facilities will be available to them and how they can access them," said Linda Lampinen, senior marketing communications specialist at Victory.

Beginning at 11 a.m., visitors can tour the center, meet the staff, and gather information on the services that will soon be available locally for the first time in northwest Lake County.

"This is something new that is available to the community; the staff on hand will be able to answer specific questions that people might have," said Lampinen.

To help make this preview a true community event, a variety of local organizations are pitching in to provide information, demonstrations, entertainment, and more.

And what is a healthcare event without rescue equipment? On-hand at Victory will be the Flight for Life rescue helicopter out of Woodstock, as well as ambulances representing the Superior Ambulance Company. Also, The Lake County Sheriff's Department Marine Unit of Fox Lake will provide hands-on boating and water safety information.

For the landlubbers, Mike's Bikes of Gurnee will discuss bicycle safety. With hopes for warm weather, Sue Lorber of Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan will share valuable information on safe picnics.

Visitors will have a chance to clap their hands and kick up their heels with the entertainment on hand. Jim Campbell's Banjo Bangers Band of Gurnee is known to be a real showstopper. The country line dancing demonstrations, courtesy of the Antioch Senior Center, promise to tempt even the couch potatoes in the crowd to move their feet.

Another get-up-and-go portion of the day will be provided by Bryan Frederick, exercise physiologist for Victory's cardiac rehabilitation program in Lindenhurst and Waukegan. He will be giving information on how to start a walking fitness program, since walking in one of the least expensive, easiest, and best exercise programs a person can develop.

For children attending the preview, they can enjoy a trip through the moon walk, join in the competition of fishing games, have their faces painted, and play games supplied by the Lake County Family YMCA in Waukegan.

Other area participants are the Losch Beverages Company in Waukegan, Jim Grazier Hot Air Balloons in Waukegan, Lindenhurst Lakes Commission, Eagle Food Stores in Lindenhurst, Lindenhurst Police Cadets, the Village of Lindenhurst Queens, Triangle Sports and Marine in Antioch, Highland Green Nursery in Grayslake, and P.C. Clowns in Zion.

It promises to be an activity filled day at the preview of Lake County's newest healthcare facility. In addition, there will be refreshments and a free raffle.

Parking is limited, so guests are asked to park in the west end of the new Eagle Food Store parking lot at 1500 East Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst. A free shuttle bus will pick up and return passengers from the southwest corner of the lot about every fifteen minutes.

The Victory Surgery and Treatment Center will offer a comprehensive range of services by some of the area's finest caregivers. In addition to the same day surgical services, the center will offer a wide range of diagnostic and laboratory test, home health care, cardiac rehabilitation, physical, speech, occupational, and massage therapy.

For more information about the preview or the center's services, call 360-4246,.

TCI continues cable upgrade in NE suburbs

TCI of Northeast Illinois announced that it is continuing major cable system enhancement project in its northeast suburban communities. The project, which will bring TCI customers more channels, new services and improved service reliability, will benefit over 30 communities.

"This network enhancement project will greatly benefit our customers," said Paul Ashley, TCI of Northeast Illinois general manager. "Our customers have told us they want more choice when it comes to the cable channels they watch. This investment will ensure that TCI customers have access to more entertainment options on their line-up. Additionally the upgrade will also improve service reliability and that means our customers will experience fewer outages. A stunningly high-speed Internet connection will also be available."

TCI will be investing close to $50 million over a period of two years to complete system improvements. Work is now in progress in North Chicago, Waukegan, Park City, Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, Antioch, Fox Lake, Gurnee, Green Oaks, Zion, Winthrop Harbor, Wadsworth, Third Lake, Beach Park, Lake Forest and Lake Bluff.

"TCI should complete the project in mid 2000," said Ashley. "While at this time we cannot divulge the entire upgrade schedule, engineering studies are taking place throughout all the northeast suburban communities we serve. We do plan to inform customers and city officials, as well as local media, in every city before work begins in their community."

Throughout the upgrade process, residents can expect to see TCI crews working throughout the city to prepare the cable system for these new services. TCI crews will notify residents with a door tag at least 48 hours in advance of any work in their neighborhood. Actual digging in an upgrade of this type is minimal, as most of the upgrade process involves the change-out of electrical equipment.

TCI will be communicating with its customers regularly as to the progress of the project. Newspaper advertisement, direct mail pieces, commercials and door hangers are just a few of the materials being used. TCI will also set up a special phone number for project updates in each town, and customers will be able to call in with questions. For any other questions regarding TCI service or to order TCI Digital Cable, residents are asked to call TCI's customer service department at 336-7211.

Gurnee hires new deputy chief

Gurnee—A new deputy fire chief will soon join the staff at the Gurnee Fire Department.

Ronald J. Sessions accepted the position on June 17. He will begin working at the fire department on Aug. 2.

"The Village of Gurnee and Gurnee Fire Department are lucky to bring on board a qualified and talented individual like Sessions," said Fred Friedl, fire chief. "[We] look forward to continuing a tradition of excellent fire/rescue service."

Sessions, who has worked in fire service for 26 years, has been employed with the Village of Arlington Heights for 21 years. He currently holds the post of captain and serves as the division chief of the emergency medical services division.

Prior to working with Arlington Heights, Sessions worked as a paid-on-call firefighter with the Village of Buffalo Grove Fire Department. The village began its selection from a pool of 85 candidates recruited from a nationwide search. Sessions was chosen out of five candidates who were granted a personal interview process with village staff and elected officials.

Mundelein to have new rates

Mundelein—The Mundelein Village Board, in a unanimous vote, adopted a water and sewer ordinance which will mean the creation of summer sewer rates for residents.

Residents of Mundelein will now have a summer sewer rate of $1.300 per 100 cubic feet of metered water consumption per billing period for bills dated between July 1 and Oct. 31 each year.

Non-summer rates for sanitary sewer services will be $1.409 per 100 cubic feet of metered water consumption between the dates of Nov. 1 and June 30 of each year.

This issue first surfaced during the village board's budget hearings in March.

"The issue comes up for people who wash their driveways and people who wash their cars multiple times a week," said Mary Kay Hatton, finance director. "We can satisfy the concerns of the customers and the board."

According to Hatton, 37 percent of water and sewer usage occurs between July and October.

"People who use more water in the summer months would benefit," said Hatton.

The new rates will be effective July 1 of this year.

Village regulates massage Libertyville —With the two recent prostitution arrests from the Royal Salon, 426 S. Milwaukee Avenue, the village administration drafted an ordinance requesting local regulation of massage establishments.

After receiving various anonymous tips about illegal activities at the Royal Salon, undercover police officers investigated the establishment which led to the arrests of Jung Ok Pak.

35. of Des Plaines, an employee and Lisa Yu, 40; of Des Plaines, the owner of the massage parior.

Considering the example at 426 S. Milwaukee Avenue, the start-up of several new massage establishments, as well as a survey of other communities, village staff recommended local regulation of massage establishments to promote public health, safety and welfare.

At the June 22 village board meeting the board approved in a 6-0 vote to approve the ordinance to regulate local massage establishments.

In order to receive a Libertyville Massage Therapist Permit, an applicant must either have received a diploma in massage therapy from an accredited educational institution or have passed the national certification process and be an active member of a nationally recognized massage therapy association.

Medical center latest landmark ew suburban areas in the nation are blessed with the quantity and quality of health care facilities as Lake County. From six full service hospitals along with medical centers at Great Lakes Naval Training Center and the Veterans Hospital, North Chicago, to acute care and emergency facilities plus doctors buildings and other associated health care centers located throughout the county, we're truly blessed.

Add to this the new Victory Surgery and Treatment Center on Grand Ave., Lindenhurst, offering surgical, diagnostic and rehabilitative services due to begin receiving patients in August.

With a broad range of services, the Surgery and Treatment Center operates on the premise of discharging a patient within four hours of the procedure. Notable among diagnostic services is the stereotactic system used to accurately locate and diagnose suspicious masses in the breast. Patients undergoing the procedure can be in and out in approximately one hour.

One floor at the imposing building is devoted to rehabilitative services, all of which are available during regular business hours.

The Surgery and Treatment Center joins two other Victory facilities at the location, the Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center in operation since 1988 and the Village at Victory Lakes, a continuing care retirement community with 200 units of apartments and cottages opened in May.

The expansion of the Victory system stems from a small clapboard house established for care and treatment in 1891. Victory is deserving of congratulations in yet another step along a continuing journey toward excellence in health care.

Goslings to geese: that's the problem

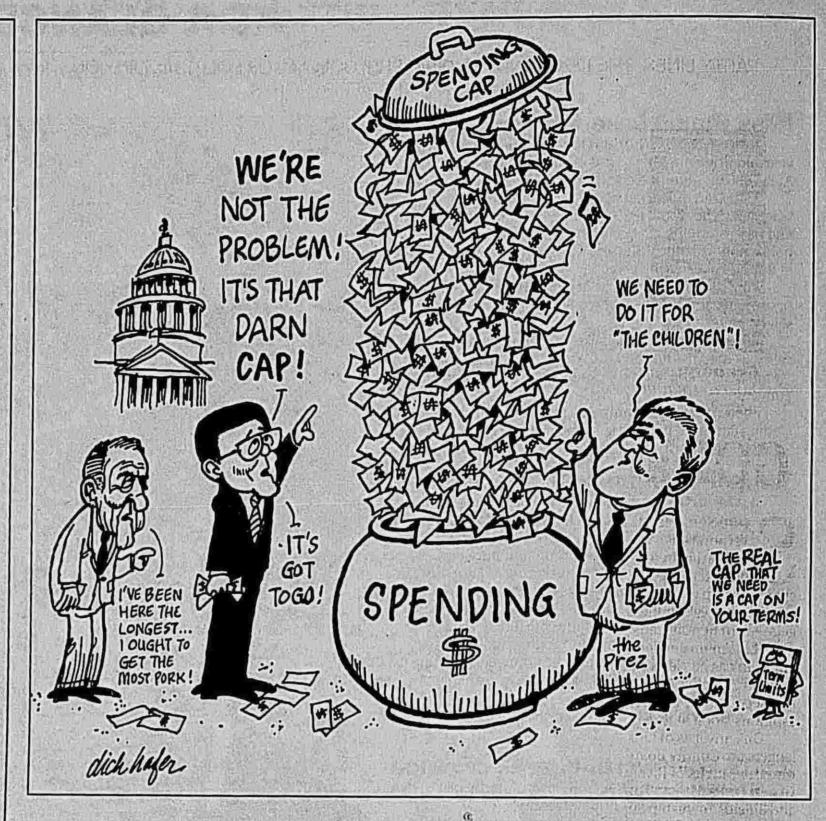

n entire new segment of the population is getting used to life in suburbia, much to the chagrin of many residents of this locality. Cuddly, furry goslings are turning into mature Canada geese whose life style and hygiene habits are abhorrent to householders who prize neat-as-a pin lawns and privacy.

Canada geese who take up residence here and elsewhere in suburbia are relatives of migratory Canada geese which are protected by federal law. The local Canadas are look-alikes with their travelin' relatives, maybe a tad smaller, but they stick around. Boy, do they stick! In fact, they take up residence with the defiance of a slouchy brother-in-law. That's the problem in a nutshell.

A study is underway to determine the population of permanent Canada geese and determine their breeding habits. The study is seen as a door opener to legal culling, which is a nice way of saying that those creatures with graceful necks and engaging waddles are going to be candidates for gooseberry pie and festive dinners.

Lovers of flora and fauna who take umbrage to culling have until 2002 to make their case. That's when a decision will be made whether thinning the ranks of our feathered neighbors is feasible.

State waterfoul biologists admit they haven't the foggiest idea how many resident Canada geese there are in Lake County and the other collar counties. Hence the study at a cost to tax-payers of more than $100,000 per year. For those immaculate lawnkeepers, the study can't be concluded fast enough.

VIEWPOINT

Hero tells why memorials vital

Tho can say it better?
Tell us. What's July 4th all about?
Why are war memorials important? How can we express our gratitude to those who sacrificed their lives?

Allen J. Lynch can tell us. He knows what Independence Day is all about. He knows why we must keep patriotism alive. He knows why the living must respect the dead.

Lynch, tall and ram-rod straight, is one of the handful of Lake County residents to wear the Congressional Medal of Honor, our nation's highest honor, an award the United States bestows on our greatest heroes.

Now a resident of Gurnee, a modest and unassuming employee of the Illinois Attorney General's office in Chicago, Lynch spoke about the meaning of memorials without mentioning Dec. 15, 1967, when he distinguished himself in Vietnam, risking his own life in a hail of gun fire to carry three wounded comrades to safety while at the same time killing five enemy soldiers.

In measured tones, Lynch spoke at the dedication of a war memorial in the Village of Round Lake, explaining that the stone and steel is a touchstone for veterans and nonveterans alike to revere the memory of those who fought and died, or were wounded.

Glancing at bronze and flags, Lynch explained that when we forget about our heritage a memorial affords an opportunity to touch a structure and be reminded of what the object represents.

For those who fought and died, the memorial tells us that the fight was worth the effort and sacrifice. "This memorial says to us daily, it's worth it. It says we are here today doing the things we want to do because somebody put their life on the line for us. Tell us it was worth it."

The decorated soldier said memorials are important for children.
"We can bring them to a memorial and we can say here are some role models for you."

Allen Lynch lauded the unveiling of a new memorial, explaining with conviction the symbolic significance of the granite and bronze. As a Congressional Medal winner, Lynch himself is symbol and an inspiration. We need to listen to what he has to say.

Senator speaks

A letter from State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) to Gov. George Ryan supporting the Lakehurst Shopping Center location for the new state multi-versity might be the push needed to get the project going. As usual, Geo didn't mince any words, calling the new facility vital for revitalization of Waukegan (in her district) and presently bogged down in the Illinois educational bureaucracy. A word from the Guv could clear the air in a hurry.

Rip snort'en time

Members of the Historical Society of the Fort Hill Country covering Fremont, Libertyville, Vernon, Avon and Ela townships are doing their best to provide a genuine "down home" patriotic Independence Day celebration. Festivities will take place under a big tent Saturday, July 3, at the Fort Hill Heritage Museum, 601 E. Noel Dr., Mundelein, starting at 10 a.m. Mayor Marilyn Sindles and State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis will handle speaking duties and there will be music from the Viking Park Singers of Gurnee and the Antioch Brass Quintet. The historians promise the liveliest celebration in Lake County this year. As an added attraction, the Fort Hill Museum will be open from noon to 4 p.m. Sounds like everything but fireworks!

Board outcast

Because he has some old-fashion ideas about elective office, Ross. Goodrich says he has been relegated to an outcast role as a park district trustee. Goodrich, a retired microbiologist whose specialty was infection control, has firm convictions that public service involves fiscal responsibility, public trust and accountability.

Newly elected to the Grayslake
Park District board, the former college professor was dismayed when a new budget prepared by Director
Bob Lashbrook was glossed over without board scrutiny. Goodrich also questions policy promoting new programs with deficit budgeting. Goodrich is no neophyte in park operations. He has past experience on the board, including a stint as president.

One man's family

John and Nikki presented their grandpa with a perfect Father's Day gift—a book of "Let Us Help" coupons. So help is standing by for pulling weeds, sweeping the garage and cleaning the basement. Who could ask for anything more?

"Line'm up and let'em come," grins Link as he views the growing list of prospective GOP opponents. At last count, the list of Republican aspirants stood at three.

On early lists of Link challengers are County Board Rep.

State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) is puzzled why more and more truckers are choosing U.S. Route 41 over the Tri-State tollway. So she lobbied the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) for an investigation. Save the money, Susan. They're avoiding toll payments. Ugh.

Doublespeak is alive and (well?)

ear old doublespeak reared its unholy head again as NATO briefers reported on the air war against Yugoslavia. Jet fighters destroyed a bus, killing as many as 35 civilians, and the military shrugged it off as "collateral damage."

An American warplane dropped bombs on the Chinese embassy in Belgrade, killing four people. In another attack, cluster bombs mistakenly hit a marketplace. "Whoops, more collateral damage."

"In Vietnam," recalled
Newsweek magazine, "the reporters had a name for the military's daily briefings: the Five O'Clock Follies.

"There was the war the generals said they were fighting and there was the real war, which was an utter quagmire."

An English professor and language cop, William Lutz, wrote in his book titled "Doublespeak" that it is a conscious use of language as a tool by those in power to achieve their ends at our expense. While some doublespeak is funny, much of it is frightening.

Says Lutz, "The U.S. Army doesn't kill the enemy anymore, it just services the target."

The military, he says, "has a way with words that is unmatched. Only the military could call a parachute an "aerodynamic personnel decelerator" and a zipper an "interlocking slide fastener."

The author George Orwell introduced the concept of governmental doublespeak in 1949 in his futuristic novel, "1984." Our dictionaries accepted the word and defined it as language used to deceive, usually through concealment or misrepresentation of truth. It's also called gobbledygook.

Time magazine said, "NATO's air campaign racked up an ugly record of accidental civilian casualties."
Military "victory" came at the expense of considerable human tragedy.

Some doublespeak is more amusing than disturbing:

THE PFARR CORNER Jerry Pfarr

Utility linemen are "outside aerial technicians."

Car mechanics are "automotive internists" while a gas station attendant is a "petroleum transfer engineer."

The candy counters in some theaters are now called "patron assistance centers."

On the more Orwellian side, a safety expert described an airplane crash as "uncontrolled contact with the ground."

A hospital labeled a patient's death as a "diagnostic misadventure of a high magnitude."

When Kenosha's automobile factory was "right-sizing," 5,000 workers discovered that a "career alternative enhancement plan" meant they were going to lose their jobs.

There are no more poor people, just "fiscal underachievers."

An ordinary steel nut, in Pentagon terms, became a "hexiform rotatable surface compression unit," which is why they cost $2,043 apiece.

Politicians now shy away from using the line "revenue enhancement through new user fees" because the press stripped away the shroud and called it what it was

Bureaucrats happily embrace doublespeak as a tool of their trade so, obviously, there is no vaccine for this verbal virus.

In 1982 a meeting was called in the White House to find an appealing name for the MX missile. When someone suggested calling it the Peacemaker, the name that finally was selected, National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane said, "I suppose Widowmaker wouldn't do?"

Illinois FIRST—A red ink program

Then the legislature was debating Governor George Ryan's $12.6 billion five-year Illinois-FIRST program, I was asked how I would have voted on the issue. My response was quick. It was a "no brainer." I would have voted against it.

Remember "Build Illinois?" That was "only" $2.5 billion in bonding, a mere shadow of the Ryan plan.
When we debated the Build Illinois program, I said that they should call it "Bilk Illinois." We're still paying for it. We built about a dozen convention centers, all of which are a losing proposition. We dished out "pork projects" just to get votes. To this day, I'm not sure that anyone could accurately identify all of the projects included in "Build Illinois." The bottom line is—did we really "Build Illinois?"

That is not to say that Gov. Jim Thompson wasn't a good governor.
He served longer than any governor in Illinois and he did many responsible things; I just don't believe that "Build Illinois" was one of them.

other words, we as legislators haven't acted responsibly by mandating that governments go to competitive bidding. I don't know if the legislation to waive competitive bidding remained, but the governor

I have always said that I worry when I hear about these heavy spending programs and they put these gimmicky titles to them like "Build Illinois" and, now, Illinois FIRST. They are made-to-order for political marketing. After all, when you're talking about over $12 billion dollars, there's bound to be lot of "niceties" to pass out.

Yes, I believe that some building projects are necessary. What bothers me is the sheer magnitude of the spending program. Remember, Gov. Ryan starts out cold with a reported $1 billion dollar surplus. If I "read his lips" correctly during the political campaign, he said something like anyone would be crazy to go in the hole when the economy has allowed us such a huge surplus to work with. He rationalizes that these increased fees to partially pay for the bonding program are not tax increases so he has not gone back on his political promise. Call them what you want, taxpayers will be paying the brunt of them.

When I read that the bonding companies won't have to bid on these bonds, and someone in the governor's staff said that they may be able to negotiate better bond prices, I said to myself, "Oh my." In other words, we as legislators haven't acted responsibly by mandating that governments go to competitive bidding. I don't know if the legislation to waive competitive bidding remained, but the governor seemed to get everything he wanted, so it may be that taxpayers lost that protection, too. No matter what, bond houses are the "big winners."

When Gov. Jim Thompson passed his "Build Illinois" program in the 80s, you know who he assigned to go all over Illinois to prioritize the projects? It was his lieutenant governor at the time—
George Ryan. At the time, Ryan learned that mayors and other public officials around Illinois were eager to get projects for their areas.
Was the "apprenticeship" that he "served" then what brought Gov.
Ryan to see the political value of initiating a mega-building project like.

Illinois FIRST?

Instead of assigning his lieutenant governor to "pick" the priority projects, I read that Ryan was allowing the four legislative leaders to "divvy up the spoils." If that holds true, it is just one more sign of the political prowess of Gov. Ryan. It's no wonder he had the full support of the leaders with his spending program.

By adopting a policy to allow legislative leaders to administer their priorities for building projects, it places more power with the leaders. Ryan has no problem with that, either. By making the four leaders even more powerful than they inherently are, he reduces the number of legislators that he has to deal with.

There is a "down side" to such a policy for the public. At a time when people seem to appreciate more independence from their public officials, it becomes harder for legislators to be independent when they "cozy" to leaders to receive their fair share of spending programs.

The other problem that I have with the "red ink" that Illinois FIRST will foist is that the economic good times roll that we are riding can't last forever. The so-called fees to finance the bond program can't "cut it," so we must dip into general funds for the shortfall. What happens when times become tougher yet we must satisfy our long-term debt? It means that day-to-day needs, like funding education, will suffer.

You won't hear much about red ink in the months ahead. And, even though it will take some time for many of the projects to get off the drawing board, there's one thing that you will see in abundance. There will be a ton of "ribbon-cutting" and all of these public officials will remind you what they are "giving" to you.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Some GOPers letting taxpayers down

ver the past few weeks, I have been extremely appalled and disappointed in a few of my fellow Republicans who are legislators in Springfield.

George Ryan's and Corrine
Wood's "Illinois First" proposal is increasingly being seen by taxpayers who come to know its details as
"The Taxpayers Last Program." It is an initiative loaded with pork and fatally flawed in its development and implementation.

Forgetting about how tax increases such as the liquor tax and vehicle registration fees place a disproportionate, and therefore unfair burden on our poorer citizens, the $12 billion spending program's decision-making process should cause any intelligent Illinois voter concern. not only was there a very deliberate and quick rush to slip this huge program through (before taxpayers were educated on its full ramifications to them); but, the basic process was seriously flawed.

Governor Ryan appropriating money and then figuring out how to spend it is something, when applied to each of our own households, we would never do. In our own families, we would never borrow $50,000 and then say to ourselves we'll figure our how to spend it later. Our families would logically determine their true, detailed needs—and then seek the means of paying for it. Why should State government treat our money any differently than we would treat it ourselves?

On behalf of all Republicans of a more rational and conservative bent, I can assure the wise taxpayers and voters of our state that there is a majority of Republicans out there that still hold our party's platform of wise and frugal government dear. We taxpayers must demand that either this money be returned to our families for we to better spend it, or the politician be returned to their families—in defeat at their next reelection attempt.

Kenneth Arnold Gurnee

Letters welcome

Letters to the editor are welcome.
They should be on topics of general interest, approximately 250 words or less. All letters must be signed, and contain a home address and telephone number. The editor reserves the right to condense all letters.

How employees steal from themselves on, this is a true story," the letter read. "I want to tell you how one of my employees cost himself a $2,000 raise." Then in one page in clear, concise terms the writer of the letter — a savvy business owner, regular reader and friend — told me

the story.

It made me think of my early work years. Was I guilty of similar indiscretions? As I thought about the jobs I'd held, I remembered several situations where I'd made it easy for my bosses to keep me from being overpaid. No raise or promotion.

The letter I mentioned in the opening paragraph pointed out one of the many ways employees can steal from their own success. As I considered turning this thought into a column, I talked with other business owners and managers. Between us we came up with several ways folks can limit their own salaries and success.

Self-limiting actions

•Arrive late and leave early. If you arrive five minutes late every morning and leave just 10 minutes early each evening you've saved yourself more than one and a half week's work each year. It's like getting eight free vacation days. Of course, your employer may view it as you missing more than 60 hours of work.

• Stretch your lunch hour and breaks. If you take an extra—long lunch hour just once a week —say just an extra 30 minutes —you avoid working another 25 hours each year. When the boss is gone is a great time.

• Spend a lot of phone time on personal business. Call your sister, your spouse and any friends you haven't talked to since yesterday. It does make your day go faster. Your boss probably won't even notice if you make your calls when he or she is on the phone, too.

One business owner told me about an employee who would spend an hour on the phone calling all over town trying to find the cheapest price. This person often bragged to other employees how easy it was to find bargains. The owner lamented that the employee spent $10 dollars worth of "work" time to save a "personal" dollar.

 Do a little Internet surfing and sharpen up your computer game skills. This will speed up your workday. One company executive said he thought it was healthy for employees to spend time surfing the Internet during work hours. Want to guess what business this executive was in?

• Do only what you're told to do. You can't be blamed for not doing something you weren't told to do can you? No, the safest way to keep your current pay level is to do only what you're told.

Don't build your skills. Why bother to become a better communicator, no one ever listens to you anyway. Why learn the new computer software, it will be replaced in two years or less. Besides, if you can do more stuff someone may actually expect you to.

Health club is first to add video rentals

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI Staff Reporter

The Exercise Place, a health club on Commerce Drive in Grayslake, has something for everyone.

For those who want to get in shape, it offers a wide variety of cardiovascular equipment. For those who want to just sit back and relax, it offers 2,000 rental videos, including new releases like "Step Mom" and "Saving Private Ryan."

William Jannis, the club's owner, got the idea to add video rentals when the video store down the street from him, JDJ Video, closed. At first he bought the store's fax machine and cash register. Then he decided to buy the owner out completely. He reopened the video store May 1 inside his club.

"Now the video store's old customers are coming to my gym, and my gym members are going to the video store," said Jannis. "I'm increasing traffic for both."

Since Jannis took over the Exercise Place a year ago, membership has increased by about 60 percent to 700. The 10,000-square-foot gym offers Nautilus, Hammerstrength and Universal equipment, 8,000 pounds of free weights, as well as treadmills, steppers, stairmasters, rowing machines, bikes and elliptical crosstrainers. The facility also provides day care, locker rooms and shower facilities.

Bill Jannis, owner of the Exercise Place in Grayslake, has added on a video department for his customers' convenience. The idea grew after a video store next door closed and Jannis began shopping for business equipment. He says the concept has been very popular with his patrons.—Photo by Derek Nosal

"Now my members can come for a workout and go home with a movie, and they don't have to go to two places" said Jannis. "It will be great in winter."

In addition to buying the video store, Jannis recently made several improvements to his gym. He repainted the interior to provide a more energized ambiance.

"It's very clean, decent and spotless," he said.

Jannis, who is a personal trainer, stresses that his heart is in his job.

"I love working with people and seeing them improve and have a better outlook on life," he said. "It's a great business to be in and the video store is a great entity to add to it."

CDW: It all started with a $3 want ad

Lake County's computer giant began with single computer sale

CDW Computer Centers Inc. will reach a milestone this summer commemorating 15 years of pioneering leadership in computer and computer related sales.

A Fortune 100 company and one of the "100 Best Companies to Work for in America," Vernon Hills based CDW got its start when Chairman and CEO Michael Krasny took out a three-line, three-day, $3 classified ad to sell his first computer at the kitchen table of his Glenview home. Founded just one year after IBM first launched the PC and incorporated two years later in 1984, CDW was an early pioneer and trendsetter in what is today known as the direct channel.

"I never imagined that I could build such a successful company, just by doing what I love to do," said Krasny. "I didn't start CDW with a business plan-I started with one customer and a passion for technology. Now, 15 years later, we are proud to be an industry leader and excited to celebrate this milestone with the people who made it happen."

An anniversary celebration, which includes promotions, givaways and special events, will run throughout the summer and fall.

CDW's campaign intends to herald its customer and their contributions, beginning with CDW's first customer, Sig Vaznelis. At the time of Krasny's first sale, Vaznelis was a recent college graduate charged with automating his new employer. He saw Krasny's classified ad and called him to buy the used PC. Neither knew that this simple transaction would be the start of a multi-billion dollar company-and a strong customer relationship that has lasted for more than 15 years, as Vaznelis' business with CDW has grown alongside his own.

CDW held a celebration to honor coworkers on June 18. Other upcoming 15th anniversary coworker celebrations include a family day at an Illinois theme park and the company's annual family picnic this summer.

In addition to recognizing its customers and coworkers, CDW's 15th anniversary celebration will culminate on Oct. 10 with the inaugural CDW Community Dash & Bash, a 5K run/1 mile walk and fun festival to benefit Lamb's Farm.

"CDW not only brings jobs and national prestige to our town, it is also one of our best corporate citizens." said Roger Byrne, mayor of the Village of Vernon Hills.

ORDINANCE: Goal to prevent further flood damage

1992. The Lake County Board will review the proposed changes and make the final decision.

Ward Miller, executive director of the Stormwater Management Commission, said the commission has spent more than 16 months of deliberation and received input from various groups throughout the process of updating the ordinance.

"The goal is to reduce the potential for flood damage from new developments, improve surface water quality and protect our natural resources," he said.

The ordinance, however, has raised the ire of developers, who view it as too restrictive.

Jim Snyder, vice president of the County Homebuilders Association, said the association is concerned that there doesn't seem to be any criteria upon which the proposed changes are based.

"It's kind of like the theory that if you put up traffic lights at an intersection you'll reduce accidents, without any consideration of whether there's a need for it," he said.

The hottest issue to developers is a provision that would increase the buffer zone for building near wetlands. Under the old rules, a 30foot setback was generally required for building near a protected wetland area. The new ordinance increases the setback requirement to 100 feet.

Snyder said this change could have a severe negative impact on home building. Suppose, for example, a person buys a 70 foot wide by 120 deep lot that is on high quality ground and plans to build a house on it. Under the proposed rules, if a wetland was located 10 feet from property line, that person would be prohibited from building on his property, he said.

"A new 100 foot buffer would virtually make your lot worthless," he said.

Many association members have "some serious legal questions" about the Stormwater Management Commission's authority to manage wetlands and buffers, according to Snyder. He said that authority is generally governed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"Some of our members are very adamant about the way this is going through and some of them think it might come down to a court deciding," he said. However, Snyder is hopeful the county will reconsider some of the ordinance's more stringent provisions.

While many developers are upset about the changes to the watershed ordinance, environmental groups feel they are long overdue.

Bill Holleman, chairman of Illinois Citizens Action, a group concerned about environmental and public health issues in Lake County, supports the proposed changes.

"We're very excited about the new regulations. The new regulations are something the county has needed for a long time. They will give Stormwater Management Commission much more power to prevent destruction of our natural resources in Lake County," he said.

Larry Leafblad, chairman of the Planning, Zoning and Development Committee, said the watershed development ordinance is just one part of the county's proposed unified development ordinance, which will cover all building issues in the county.

"It's a long way from being done, but in my opinion it's the most important part of our entire (unified development) ordinance because it deals with lakes, streams and open lands remaining in Lake County," he said.

The County Board will refer the watershed development ordinance to the Zoning Board of Appeals to hold public hearings on the proposed changes over the next several months. He expects a final draft of the watershed ordinance will be ready for the full board to consider by the end of the year.

Leafblad said the watershed development ordinance is designed not only to protect river, lakes and streams from pollution but also to prevent flooding, which is often caused by the destruction of wet-

POWER PLANT:

Input sought

100 community leaders throughout Lake and McHenry counties about their plans to hold a meeting on the power plant issue.

LaBelle urged local officials to "submit any questions they'd like to see addressed" at the meeting.

"Everybody is asking the same questions," he said. "There have been questions asked about the impact on groundwater supply from these power plants. There have been other issues raised. We have to develop some understanding so we can deal with these issues."

A panel of representatives from various county and state agencies are expected to be on hand to field questions, including officials from Environmental Illinois Protection Agency, Department of Natural Resources, Illinois Water Survey, the Lake County Department of Public Works, Stormwater Management Commission and county health department.

LaBelle said market studies of power usage suggest that one or more electrical plants may be justified in the area. If that's the case, he said the county needs to determine the best possible locations for such a

The issue, for Carter, is whether there is a demonstrated need and what are the potential drawbacks of locating a natural gas-fired combined cycle facility in a given com-

tion to the strip club, which closed shortly after it opened.

She said the ordinance was an effort to protect children and families from having these types of establishments in their neighborhoods.

"I think it's a good step," O'Kelly said of the court's ruling. "We have to see what the higher court does, but the bottom line is the ordinance protects the residents of Lake County."

O'Kelly said she has received calls from officials in other counties, including Boone County, who are trying to establish their own ordinances regulating adult entertainment businesses.

"We have other areas that are looking at our ordinance so it sets the standard for the whole state," she

What is unique or special about us?

Midwestern Regional Medical Center is committed to revolutionizing the delivery of health care services by continuously focusing on the needs of our patients and their families. This commitment inspires us to develop programs and services that far exceed the best standards in patient care. We believe that, as long as there is life, there is hope. We support and empower our patients in their pursuit of physical, mental and spiritual health. Each component of our integrated system is made up of dedicated and dynamic people offering world-class treatment solutions that truly make a difference in the lives of our patients.

A brief history

Midwestern Regional Medical Center was established in 1992 with the complete renovation and expansion of the former American International Hospital. Richard J. Stephenson set out to establish a community-based hospital that provides easy access to quality health care. At the same time, the hospital serves as one of Chicagoland's top oncology facilities through its affiliation with Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

Plans for growth

In the winter of 1998, Midwestern Regional Medical Center opened the doors of the new Mary Brown Stephenson Radiation Oncology Center, a world-class radiation oncology program offering the latest technological advances in the treatment of cancer, including High Dose Rate Brachytherapy, 3-D Conformal Radiation and, coming soon, Intensity Modulated Radiation Therapy (IMRT), to complete our oncology program, making it one of the top programs in the region.

Coffee and More at 21 E. Belvidere

There's nothing that we love more than a good cup of coffee. The entire country solves its problems, business and personal, makes small talk and visits with friends and relatives, or just relaxes over a cup of coffee.

An excellent cup of coffee, and much more, can be found at the 21 E. Coffee House, located at 21 E. Belvidere in Grayslake. For the last three years, Sharon Hallin and her expert staff have been serving a variety of gourmet coffees, as well as delectable breakfasts and lunches.

Choose between 10 gourmet coffees, made with freshly roasted beans, for a creamy mocha, a latte or a rich cappuccino, while you dine on a fluffy omelette, pancakes or a fresh bagel.

Maybe a deli sandwich and a forbidden, but delectable, pastry is the lunch you've been looking forward to.

There is also a menu and luscious ice cream treats. 21 E. Coffee House has inside dining, outside bistro dining when the weather permits, a cheery fireplace when it doesn't, and a smoking room.

Special meeting rooms seating 10 to 75 people are available. The coffee house is open seven days a week: Monday through Friday from 5:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Saturday from 7a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Sunday, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

I am a recent college graduate who was recruited by a well estab-lished corporation in early April. The corporation has invited me out for an intense interviewing process. I will be flying out to meet with these people just outside the Denver area in mid-May. I feel comfort-able about meeting with these people I have spoken to over the past month. My concern is that the owner of the company is picking me up from the airport and I have not previously spoken to the man. I am afraid of being at a loss for what to say while in the car for 40 minutes and am definitely concerned about having a lull in the conversation. Can you give me some tips on what topics to hit on in the case of this happening? Thank you. G.A. Lake Forest

Good question and asked more often than you think. You can never go wrong by starting out the car ride by asking questions such as... Have you always lived in the Denver area?... Has your corporation always resided in the Denver area? If you have been to Denver before, no matter how long ago, it is always safe to say things such as...I had forgotten how beautiful the mountains are. Chances are, the individual will most likely enjoy talking about himself and his corporation, so you can never go wrong with lead-in statements such as I have offered. Let the conversation take its own path. Forty minutes will go by quick. Just remember that before words come out of your mouth, be sure they are what you want the person or people to hear. Good Luck!

Dear Search,

I have been working with an employment agency for the past 3 months and the counselor that I am working with seems to be sending me out on too many interviews that I am not qualified for. I have said on many occasions that I don't feel that job is right for me or that I am not qualified to do this. They continually send me anyway, saying things like...You won't know unless you try. Quite often the person interviewing me will stop in the middle of an interview and say something like...I don't understand the service sending you here for this position. Do I have the right to say that I do not feel the position is right for me? I am afraid that if I say that, that the service will stop sending me to interviews. I am getting a hit frustrated by always. sending me to interviews. I am getting a bit frustrated by always being there for interviews that apparently are not landing me anything but wasted time. What do you suggest? T.B.-Gurnee

I will guess that you are registered with only one employment service. While this may have sufficed for the short term, it appears as though you have had an insufficient 3-month search. Cut your losses now! Register with a reputable service and continue to search on your own, as well. You absolutely have the right to turn down any interview you wish not to attend, but keep in mind, that a good employment counselor knows all about the company and position for which they sent you out. Once the decision has been made by you to go on the interview, stick with it.

> Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

I am a recent college graduate who was recruited by a well established corporation in early April. The corporation has invited me out for an intense interviewing process. I will be flying out to meet with these people just outside the Denver area in mid-May. I feel comfortable about meeting with these people I have spoken to over the past month. My concern is that the owner of the company is picking me up from the airport and I have not previously spoken to the man. I am afraid of being at a loss for what to say while in the car for 40 minutes and am definitely concerned about having a lull in the conversation. Can you give me some tips on what topics to hit on in the case of this happening? Thank you. G.A. Lake Forest

Dear G.A.,

Dear G.A.,
Good question and asked more often than you think. You can never go wrong by starting out the car ride by asking questions such as...Have you always lived in the Denver area?...Has your corporation always resided in the Denver area? If you have been to Denver before, no matter how long ago, it is always safe to say things such as...I had forgotten how beautiful the mountains are. Chances are, the individual will most likely enjoy talking about himself and his corporation, so you can never go wrong with lead-in statements such as I have offered. Let the conversation take its own path. Forty minutes will go by quick. Just remember that before words come out of your mouth, be sure they are what you want the person or people to hear. Good Luck! Good Luck!

Dear Search,

I have been working with an employment agency for the past 3 months and the counselor that I am working with seems to be sending me out on too many interviews that I am not qualified for. I have said on many occasions that I don't feel that job is right for me or that I am not qualified to do this. They continually send me anyway, saying things like...You won't know unless you try. Quite often the person interviewing me will stop in the middle of an interview and say something like...I don't understand the service sending you here for this position. Do I have the right to say that I do not feel the position is right for me? I am afraid that if I say that, that the service will stop sending me to interviews. I am getting a bit frustrated by always being there for interviews that apparently are not landing me any. being there for interviews that apparently are not landing me anything but wasted time. What do you suggest?

T.B.-Gurnee

I will guess that you are registered with only one employment service. While this may have sufficed for the short term, it appears as though you have had an insufficient 3-month search. Cut your losses nough you have had an insufficient 3-month search. Cut your losses now! Register with a reputable service and continue to search on your own, as well. You absolutely have the right to turn down any interview you wish not to attend, but keep in mind, that a good employment counselor knows all about the company and position for which they send you out. Once the decision has been made by you to go on the interview, stick with it.

WELLINGS (407-61)

The Wellings (407-61) is a charming brick country home with a wrapping front porch with 3,549 square feet of living space. The inset entry is flanked by two generous rooms. On the left is a dining room, brightened by two large windows. On the right is the formal sunken living room, unique in design with an angular portion filled with windows. The shelves straight ahead could display precious collectibles. Double doors lead to the master suite on the right, while the sunken family room is to the left.

The master suite creates a luxurious escape with a window seat for daydreaming, and a provides his and hers walk-in closets, two separate sink areas, and both a spa tub and a shower. The entire bath is made private by pocket doors.

Rounding the open banister u-shaped stairs, the sunken family room is open to an eating bar and a fireplace. A large window gives a view, and a door leads onto the rear deck. The nearby kitchen is brightened by two skylights and a garden window. Several cooks could work together in this kitchen with ease. Plenty of counter space, a vegetable sink, and a separate sitting room with French doors leading onto the deck. A double-sided lireplace offers a cozy touch to the suite, while many windows brighten the space with natural light. The master bath cooktop and oven, make any culinary task more enjoyable.

The three bedrooms upstairs are generously sized and only two share a bathroom, while the third has a private bath. Each room has its own attic access for storing seasonal items. At the bottom of the stairs, a hall leads into the sewing room and den. Each room has a desk or built-in counter area. These two rooms could be used as bedrooms since they are located near a half.

From the garage entry, the utility room is equipped with a wash basin, and counter space for sorting and folding laundry. The large garage has room for three cars and provides a work bench near the service door. The Wellings has comfort and spaciousness, with the option of basement game room that a family could spread out and enjoy. For a study kit of the WELLINGS (407-61LP60) send $14.95, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424. (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a collection of plan books, send $20.00, or save by ordering the kit and collection together for $29.95. For faster processing call
